Stassen Bolt Seen Helping Nixon's Bid

GOP Leaders Believe
He Could Win Top
Spot If Ike Quits

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen's attack appears to have elevated Vice President Nixon into position as the strongest candidate for top place on the Republican ticket if President Eisenhower should withdraw.

Republican leaders are supremely confident the President will not alter his decision to seek a second term unless there is a deterioration of his health.

Nevertheless, in the back of the minds of most politicians remains the possibility that the Republican National Convention three weeks hence might suddenly be confronted with the necessity of choosing another presidential nominee.

May Force Alteration
Beyond that, of course, lies the possibility that a change for the worse in the President's health after the nominations have been made might force an alteration in the ticket before the November election.

In that case the Republican National Committee could call another convention if there were time, or it could name new presidential and vice presidential nominees.

There most certainly would be a move at the convention to draft Chief Justice Earl Warren for the presidential nomination if Eisenhower weren't available. But Warren's popularity with the men around Eisenhower wouldn't be matched within the GOP National Committee, if the committee were doing the choosing.

These possible developments fall strictly in the "if" class at this time. But if they should materialize, the backwash from Stassen's proposal to dump Nixon from the GOP ticket has left the vice president perched high above other prospects for the top place.

The proposal of Stassen, Eisenhower's disarmament assistant, to replace Nixon with Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts brought a rush of Republicans of all shades of opinion into the Nixon vice presidential camp.

Among Nixon Supporters
These included 180 GOP members of the House, Walter Williams, former head of the Independent Citizens for Eisenhower, and men like Sens. Clifford Case of New Jersey, Allott of Colorado and Thye of Minnesota who like to regard themselves as liberal Republicans.

Herter's agreement to place Nixon's name in nomination placed him among the Nixon supporters.

Eisenhower has said he was "delighted" that Nixon wanted to run again but thus far hasn't publicly foreclosed any other candidate.

Cow Is Found In Airport Tower, Is Coaxed Down

SWANSEA, Wales, July 29 (AP)—A cow clumped 60 feet up a winding staircase to the top of the airfield control tower here yesterday and stood gazing contentedly over the countryside.

And there she stayed for 16 hours while authorities pondered the problem of getting her down. "We had a cow up there before," commented a member of the Swansea flying club. "That time I helped to push her down the stairway. But this time we're not going to risk that because there is a danger of being crushed against the wall if the cow gets angry."

John Davis, a 17-year-old farm boy, solved the problem last night. He milked the cow, uttered a few soothing "S000-Bossies." And she clumped back down the stairs.

Prison Break Foiled, Inmates Had Gas Bombs

THOMASTON, Maine, July 29 (AP)—A group of inmates at Maine State Prison today made a fruitless attempt to fight their way to freedom with homemade gasoline fire bombs. A fire which officials said was started as a diversion destroyed the prison printing shop.

Warden Allen L. Robbins said "several unidentified inmates" assaulted an entrance with rocks and homemade gasoline bombs. One bomb went over the wall, the others fell short of their marks and all burned out harmlessly.

The rocks smashed windows in the guard tower, he said.

At the same time, a fire started in the printing shop, which was completely destroyed "at a loss of several thousand dollars," Robbins said.

Also damaged were a machine shop, the prisoners' commissary and an automobile license plate shop, as the prison's sprinkling system and the Thomaston Fire Department drenched the threatened area.

Robbins termed the incident "a well-organized escape attempt that just didn't click." He said the prisoners had broken into the commissary, bolted two rolling shelf ladders together and secured several white shirts to replace their prison jackets.

The warden said guards fired several shots into the air during the incident and kept the situation under control.

He said, "Half a dozen persons suspected of participating were immediately confined to cells, and an investigation was started." He would not identify those confined.

The rest of the prison's 443 inmates continued on their Sunday routines and the usual Sunday ball game was played, Robbins said.

Vicious Storm Hits Channel, Six Dead

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—A vicious storm roared up the English Channel today, capsizing scores of small ships, unleashing landslides inland and blowing down trees and buildings. At least six persons were reported to have perished in churning seas which caused suspension of commercial sea traffic between Britain and France.

Hail and drenching rains rode the big blow, which was called the worst channel storm in years. Gusts were clocked at up to 90 miles an hour.

"Dozens of ships are limping in," said T. A. Cotton, harbor master at Newlyn in Cornwall. "We have them here from all over the world and the gale is still strong."

The 1,246-ton British coastal steamer Teeswood sank off Dungeness but heroic work by Coast Guardsmen and the Israeli tanker Haifa saved all but one of the 17-man crew. The Teeswood was carrying no passengers. A 35-foot wave hit the ship broadside and turned her over and she was going down when help arrived.

Thirty miles from Lizard Rock at the tip of Cornwall—graveyard of many a ship—the 103-ton auxiliary ketch Moyana went down but all of her crew of 23 were saved by the British ship Clan McLeod. The Moyana, manned by 15-teenage sea cadets and eight experienced seamen, won the international sailing race from Torbay to Lisbon and was on her way home to a triumphant welcome.

Warships from the British navy fought the high seas as they came to the assistance of 22 yachts competing in the cross channel race from Le Havre to Portsmouth. Late today 16 of the yachts were accounted for but a naval spokesman said they were probably battling it out with the storm, for none of them had radioed for help.

The storm did major damage to crops and fruit trees over a wide area of southern and western England.

McKeon Plans To Take Stand

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., July 29 (AP)—Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, it is authoritatively expected, will testify from the witness stand personally in defense of the April 8 Marine recruit death march.

The 31-year-old drill instructor led a column of 74 members of Platoon 71 into the tide-tipped waters of Ribbon Creek at 8 p.m. that Sunday night. Six of the youngsters drowned in the dark.

Thus far, McKeon's own story of the tragedy has come only through a statement he made to a Marine investigator. The prosecution introduced it in evidence last week. The defense says it is not complete.

Defense attorney Emile Zola Berman has not committed himself on whether or not he will call McKeon. However, Maj. Charles B. Sevier, the prosecutor, said today he has prepared his case on a firm assumption McKeon will be a witness in his own defense.

The court-martial, which resumes tomorrow, has been in recess since last Thursday, when the prosecution rested. The defense opens tomorrow with the usual midtrial motion for dismissal of all or part of the charges.

McKeon is accused of manslaughter, oppression of recruits and drinking while on duty. The tall, cropped-haired sergeant faces the maximum of a dishonorable discharge and up to six years in prison if convicted.

Italian Lines Transfer Ship

GENOA, Italy, July 29 (AP)—The Italian Lines announced today the 23,842-ton passenger ship Conte Grande is being transferred to the North Atlantic run temporarily to fill the gap left by the loss of the Andrea Doria.

The 28-year-old Conte Grande had been on the South American run. She will be replaced by the Toscanelli. The Conte Grande will sail for New York from Naples Aug. 27 and again on Sept. 25.

FT. DETRICK, Md., July 29 (AP)—Dr. Herbert G. Tanner, a top civilian scientist of the Army Chemical Corps, retires tomorrow at the age of 62.

Loose Contract Ends Being Tied By Steel Heads

PITTSBURGH, July 29 (AP)—Steel negotiators began wrapping up the loose ends of a contract today for ending the crippling steel strike—a month old tomorrow.

Once the contract language is worked out and the formal contract is signed, the nationwide strike of 650,000 steelworkers will be over and steel mills can start booming again.

For many a steelworker this was the last Sunday at home. A back to work call is expected sometime early this week under a three-year, no-strike agreement.

The United Steelworkers and the basic steel industry reached agreement on the new contract—longest in the union's 20-year history—last Friday.

The strike not only socked the nation's economy for a billion dollars but cost the steelworkers an estimated 200 million dollars in lost wages.

With inventories depleted and customers clamoring for steel, the steel industry can expect capacity production with the reopening of mills. But it will be at least 10 days to two weeks before steel production hits volume level.

A hike in steel prices is certain. A good guess is prices will go up anywhere from $8 to $12 a ton. Some industry sources put the figure between $10 and $12. The composite price was $130 a ton before the strike.

The strike also echoed in allied industries where an estimated 103,000 were idled. Hardest hit were the railroads and the coal mines.

Back to work calls for some of these groups are under way. U. S. Steel Corp. will resume operation of some of its mines tomorrow and the Pennsylvania and Reading railroads are recalling some of their workers.

The union placed the value of the three-year package at 45.6 cents—an average of a little better than 15 cents a year. Industry sources put the figure at between 52 and 55 cents.

Besides a wage increase amounting to 10 1/2 cents the first year, 9.1 cents the second year and 9.1 cents the third year, the contract also provides for protection against rises in the cost of living.

Somebody Went Without Breakfast

POOL-IN-WHARFEDALE, England, July 29 (AP)—L. S. Lawson's dog is a retriever but Lawson didn't realize until today just how great a retriever he is.

Lawson swears the dog showed up at the backdoor this morning holding a frying pan between his teeth and—the frying pan had a warm egg in it.

Lawson is now on the lookout for a neighbor who may be trying to retrieve his breakfast.

Grace And Prince To Visit States

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, July 29 (AP)—Prince Rainier and Princess Grace will leave Sept. 20 for a two-months visit in the United States, a Monaco government spokesman said today. They will sail aboard the liner United States. Before making the visit they will take a Mediterranean cruise aboard their yacht Deo Juvante II.

Beaches Are Crowded

KAMAKURA, Japan, July 29 (AP)—Sizzling, 90.3 degree weather—qualling the high for the year—sent 670,000 people—by police estimate—to Japan's most popular beaches today.

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Britain was reported proposing an ultimatum-like warning to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt tonight as British, French and United States policymakers sat down to chart a course for freeing the Suez Canal from his sole control.

Congress Failed To Grant Ike Powers Sought

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration faced the task today of "waging peace" for the indefinite future without any of the new powers that President Eisenhower requested from this session of Congress just ended.

A survey of congressional action on administration proposals in the foreign policy field shows that the President failed to obtain any of the new weapons he sought to meet the changed tactics of Soviet communism.

This does not mean that Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have been deprived of any of the broad foreign policy authority which they already have. It probably does mean that they will be unable in the months ahead to alter American tactics in a way which they considered important a few months ago.

Chief among these were a request to commit the United States to individual construction projects in foreign countries which, like highway systems and hydroelectric installations, would take a number of years to complete, and broad powers of flexibility in the use of foreign aid funds so that money could be easily shifted from one country to another as needed.

Congress did not grant either of these powers. In place of long-range authority it adopted a general statement of intent to carry on some kind of foreign aid as long as necessary to combat communism.

On the side of positive action Congress granted a substantial increase in funds for the U. S. Information Agency which operates the Voice of America and other foreign information activities. The total voted for the fiscal year which began July 1 was $13 million dollars, compared with $9 million last year.

Congress also approved a bill to raise salaries and generally reorganize the foreign service.

But in the foreign aid field the President got an appropriation of only $3,750,000,000, or $1,100,000,000 less than he had asked.

Miss Universe Adopted Child

LOS ANGELES, July 29 (AP)—From Omaha orphanage to world beauty fame—that's the rise of the recently crowned Miss Universe, Carol Morris of Ottumwa, Iowa.

The 20-year-old brunette said today that she was adopted at the age of 3 by the Rev. and Mrs. LaVerne Morris.

"And I have the best parents in the world," Carol said of her foster parents. "I'd never trade them for any in the world."

The adoption came to light with the publication of a copyrighted story by the Omaha World-Herald today.

The beauty winner and her parents quickly confirmed the story. The Rev. Morris and his wife said they adopted Carol from the Child Saving Institute in Omaha in 1939 while he was serving as pastor of the Christian church in Oakland, Iowa.

The Rev. Morris said he didn't know Carol's real parents, and she added that she doesn't remember anything about them, either.

The foster father said Carol has "known almost from the start" that she was adopted. She is the only child the Morrises have had.

Report No Change In Albert Woolson

DULUTH, Minn., July 29 (AP)—Physicians reported no overnight change today in the condition of Albert Woolson, last survivor of the Civil War Union Army who lapsed into a coma early yesterday.

The 109-year-old ex-drummer boy, sole living veteran of the 2,760,000-man Grand Army of the Republic, remained unconscious and in critical condition in St. Luke's Hospital.

Superhot Oil Engulfs Men Fleeing Scene

32 Others Injured;
Seven Tanks Go Up;
Blast Seen 40 Miles

DUMAS, Tex., July 29 (AP)—Four huge petroleum tanks exploded today bathing 19 men in a superhot wall of flame and killing them in their tracks. There may be four more bodies in the devastated area, making a total of 22.

Thirty-two others were hospitalized with burns. Some of them were horribly seared.

The towering orange explosion fireball was sighted in Amarillo, 40 miles away.

A hundred or more spectators watched, terrified, as lifetime friends and kin stumbled moaning and crying from the smoke and flame on a tank farm of the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corp.

Snuffed Out Lives
"The fiery blast snuffed out their lives and they crumpled in their tracks," said Bill Lask, news editor of the Moore County News, in describing how the 18 or more died. He was at the site to cover the fire.

The fire-blast was not beyond belief, survivors said.

A workman protected in a shack 300 yards from the first explosion was scorched. A railroad bridge a quarter of a mile away was burned completely.

Victims mainly were oil workers and volunteer firemen.

Some of the bodies were so hot long after the explosion that they set fire to blankets used to wrap them.

A boy about 11, wearing no shirt stumbled from the heat with his naked back burning fiercely.

Sets Back Afire
Bob Hamilton, Moore County News reporter, was a quarter-mile from the explosion and the heat set his hair blazing.

Most of the dead were taken to the National Guard Armory, where townpeople attempted to identify bodies that were reduced to charcoal.

The estimate that four more bodies may be in the explosion and fire area was made by Moore County Sheriff John Easley.

This Texas Panhandle town of 8,200 was not geared for a disaster this large. But it's a country town, and everybody helps everybody else, and by 11 a.m.—less than four hours after the 7:15 a.m. disaster, all the 32 burned had been taken care of in the previously quiet and calm 40-bed red brick Moore County Memorial Hospital.

Help Is Limited

Earlier, the burned sat in corridors or anywhere else they could find a place—some moaning and crying but otherwise quiet—while the limited staff of doctors and nurses cared for them. For a time, an injection of morphine was all that could be done.

The explosion and fire was on the tank farm of the 75-million-dollar McKee plant of the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corp. with headquarters in Amarillo, Tex. It adjoins the firm's McKee refinery, which was not damaged.

The tank that caused the holocaust was No. 199, a 15,000-barrel mixing arrangement filled with highly explosive pentane used in gasoline refining.

The explosion set off a chain of blasts and fires in surrounding tanks, some used for crude oil storage.

Death List Continues Rise In Wake Of Ships Collision

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—The Coast Guard said today a reck by the Italian Line has increased from 25 to 42 the possible number of dead in the Andrea Doria-Stockholm ship collision.

The Italian Line revision said 37 persons were presumed to be dead and missing from the Doria. Yesterday it had listed "two dead and 18 missing and presumed dead—accounting for yesterday's total of at least 25 fatalities.

Meanwhile, office personnel at the Italian Line continued to cross-check passenger manifests and crew rosters against the names of survivors listed by rescue craft.

The company lists 49 persons on an "unaccounted for" roster—individuals believed safe but on which no accurate information has yet been obtained. The listing is separate from the dead-and-missing roll.

There were 70 names on the "unaccounted for" list last night, but information about 21 was received today from survivors themselves, friends and relatives.

A company spokesman said no further lists of names would be issued pending completion of clerical work.

The Andrea Doria went to the bottom during the fogbound night of July 25 after a collision with the Stockholm about 45 miles south of Nantucket, Mass.

Dramatic rescue work by ships in the area, abetted by Coast Guard vessels, saved most of the 1,706 passengers and crewmen reported aboard the 30,000-ton Doria.

The 12,600-ton Stockholm, her bow slashed to ribbons by the impact with the forward starboard side of the Doria, stayed afloat after the crash and effected the rescue of more than 500 persons from the ill-fated Italian ship.

The Swedish ship now is in a Brooklyn drydock for repairs. Two of the vessel's crewmen died in the crash and three other crew members are missing and presumed dead.

the Strategic Air Command expands. As many as 200 or 300 strategic bombers—the B52s, the medium B47s and the older B36s—are put into the air to make mock attacks simultaneously and from different quarters. They are pitted against the warning networks and interceptors and aircraft defenses of the Continental Air Defense Command.

The B52 has a range of more than 6,000 miles, without aerial refueling. Its speed is over 650 miles per hour and it can cruise at an altitude in excess of 50,000 feet. The Stratofortress can carry hydrogen bombs.

The Air Force says the Bison is generally comparable with the B52. It estimates that the Soviet Bison, carrying a 10,000-pound bomb, could reach seven-eighths of area in the United States with only one aerial refueling, and with two refuelings could hit any target in the United States.

Officials conducting the defense tests say that certain safety requirements prevent absolute simulation of an enemy air attack. "Obviously one of the weakest points in the present incomplete defense system is the 'hole' in distant Early Warning line. Officials have estimated that it might be as much as two years before the radar stations of that chain along the northern rim of the continent are ready for operation."

With inventories depleted and customers clamoring for steel, the steel industry can expect capacity production with the reopening of mills. But it will be at least 10 days to two weeks before steel production hits volume level.

A hike in steel prices is certain. A good guess is prices will go up anywhere from $8 to $12 a ton. Some industry sources put the figure between $10 and $12. The composite price was $130 a ton before the strike.

The strike also echoed in allied industries where an estimated 103,000 were idled. Hardest hit were the railroads and the coal mines.

Back to work calls for some of these groups are under way. U. S. Steel Corp. will resume operation of some of its mines tomorrow and the Pennsylvania and Reading railroads are recalling some of their workers.

The union placed the value of the three-year package at 45.6 cents—an average of a little better than 15 cents a year. Industry sources put the figure at between 52 and 55 cents.

Besides a wage increase amounting to 10 1/2 cents the first year, 9.1 cents the second year and 9.1 cents the third year, the contract also provides for protection against rises in the cost of living.

Somebody Went Without Breakfast

POOL-IN-WHARFEDALE, England, July 29 (AP)—L. S. Lawson's dog is a retriever but Lawson didn't realize until today just how great a retriever he is.

Lawson swears the dog showed up at the backdoor this morning holding a frying pan between his teeth and—the frying pan had a warm egg in it.

Lawson is now on the lookout for a neighbor who may be trying to retrieve his breakfast.

Britain Proposes Warning Nasser

Big Three Policymakers Chart Course For Freeing Suez Canal

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Britain was reported proposing an ultimatum-like warning to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt tonight as British, French and United States policymakers sat down to chart a course for freeing the Suez Canal from his sole control.

As a first step in retaliation for Nasser's coup in nationalizing the canal, long maintained as an international waterway, Britain and France slammed controls on all Egyptian cash and assets within their reach. Britain froze Egyptian accounts yesterday, and France followed suit today.

As a second step, informants said, Britain favored sending a stiff warning to the Cairo government that it would run the risk of meeting with force if it attempts to limit movement of ships through the vital passage.

But in statements tonight, Egyptian embassies here and in Washington gave assurances that the canal would be kept open to all ships under nationalization.

Blame U. S., Britain
The assurances came in a statement blaming the United States and Britain for forcing Nasser to take over the canal by withdrawing their offers to help finance the Aswan Dam project.

The sources did not disclose the precise form of the warning envisaged. It seemed unlikely, however, that a deadline could be attached until such time as the waterway was actually closed.

The British proposal was reported after Burmah Said, Egyptian executive of the newly nationalized Suez Canal Co., had announced in Cairo that it would refuse to accept checks for canal tolls drawn on British banks. The policy obviously was adopted to circumvent the freeze which affected funds and assets of the canal company in this country and France.

Largest users of the canal have paid their tolls in Britain and France. If they continued the practice, Nasser would be faced with the decision of whether to bar them from the canal, and risk being charged with interfering with international commerce.

Nasser declared yesterday that Western "interference" might result in obstruction to canal traffic and that "imperialists" would have to bear the consequences.

Convention Supports Contention
In legal support of their proposed warning, British sources pointed out that the Convention of Constantinople in 1888, reaffirmed many times, guaranteed the canal should be open to ships of all nations in peace or war. Russia was among the nine signers of the convention.

The three-power talks got under way as U. S. Secretary of State Dulles in Washington, returning from South America, condemned Nasser's nationalization of the canal as striking a "grievous blow at international confidence."

The statement bolstered previous reports from Washington that the United States is desirous of putting up a united front with Britain and France on the Middle East issue.

The ace troubleshooter of the U. S. State Department, Robert D. Murphy, deputy undersecretary, sat in on the three-power talks which opened in the official residence of British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Miss Universe Adopted Child

LOS ANGELES, July 29 (AP)—From Omaha orphanage to world beauty fame—that's the rise of the recently crowned Miss Universe, Carol Morris of Ottumwa, Iowa.

The 20-year-old brunette said today that she was adopted at the age of 3 by the Rev. and Mrs. LaVerne Morris.

"And I have the best parents in the world," Carol said of her foster parents. "I'd never trade them for any in the world."

The adoption came to light with the publication of a copyrighted story by the Omaha World-Herald today.

The beauty winner and her parents quickly confirmed the story.

The Rev. Morris and his wife said they adopted Carol from the Child Saving Institute in Omaha in 1939 while he was serving as pastor of the Christian church in Oakland, Iowa.

The Rev. Morris said he didn't know Carol's real parents, and she added that she doesn't remember anything about them, either.

The foster father said Carol has "known almost from the start" that she was adopted. She is the only child the Morris have had.

Congress Failed To Grant Ike Powers Sought

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration faced the task today of "waging peace" for the indefinite future without any of the new powers that President Eisenhower requested from this session of Congress just ended.

A survey of congressional action on administration proposals in the foreign policy field shows that the President failed to obtain any of the new weapons he sought to meet the changed tactics of Soviet communism.

This does not mean that Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have been deprived of any of the broad foreign policy authority which they already have. It probably does mean that they will be unable in the months ahead to alter American tactics in a way which they considered important a few months ago.

Chief among these were a request to commit the United States to individual construction projects in foreign countries which, like highway systems and hydroelectric installations, would take a number of years to complete, and broad powers of flexibility in the use of foreign aid funds so that money could be easily shifted from one country to another as needed.

Congress did not grant either of these powers. In place of long-range authority it adopted a general statement of intent to carry on some kind of foreign aid as long as necessary to combat communism.

On the side of positive action Congress granted a substantial increase in funds for the U. S. Information Agency which operates the Voice of America and other foreign information activities. The total voted for the fiscal year which began July 1 was 113 million dollars, compared with 89 million last year.

Congress also approved a bill to raise salaries and generally reorganize the foreign service.

But in the foreign aid field the President got an appropriation of only $3,750,000,000, or $1,100,000,000 less than he had asked.

Death List Continues Rise In Wake Of Ships Collision

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—The Coast Guard said today a reck by the Italian Line has increased from 25 to 42 the possible number of dead in the Andrea Doria-Stockholm ship collision.

The Italian Line revision said 37 persons were presumed to be dead and missing from the Doria. Yesterday it had listed "two dead and 18 missing and presumed dead—accounting for yesterday's total of at least 25 fatalities."

Meanwhile, office personnel at the Italian Line continued to cross-check passenger manifests and crew rosters against the names of survivors listed by rescue craft.

The company lists 49 persons on an "unaccounted for" roster—individuals believed safe but on which no accurate information has yet been obtained. The listing is separate from the dead-and-missing roll.

There were 70 names on the "unaccounted for" list last night, but information about 21 was received today from survivors themselves, friends and relatives.

A company spokesman said no further lists of names would be issued pending completion of clerical work.

The Andrea Doria went to the bottom during the fogbound night of July 25 after a collision with the Stockholm about 45 miles south of Nantucket, Mass.

Superhot Oil Engulfs Men Fleeing Scene

32 Others Injured; Seven Tanks Go Up; Blast Seen 40 Miles

DUMAS, Tex., July 29 (AP)—Four huge petroleum tanks exploded today bathing 19 men in a superhot wall of flame and killing them in their tracks. There may be four more bodies in the devastated area, making a total of 22.

Thirty-two others were hospitalized with burns. Some of them were horribly seared.

The towering orange explosion fireball was sighted in Amarillo, 40 miles away.

A hundred or more spectators watched, terrified, as lifetime friends and kin stumbled moaning and crying from the smoke and flame on a tank farm of the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corp.

Snuffed Out Lives
"The fiery blast snuffed out their lives and they crumpled in their tracks," said Bill Lask, news editor of the Moore County News, in describing how the 18 or more died. He was at the site to cover the fire.

The fire-blast was hot beyond belief, survivors said. A workman protected in a shack 300 yards from the first explosion was scorched. A railroad bridge a quarter of a mile away was burned completely.

Victims mainly were oil workers and volunteer firemen. Some of the bodies were so hot long after the explosion that they set fire to blankets used to wrap them.

A boy about 11, wearing no shirt, stumbled from the heat with his naked back burning fiercely.

Bob Hamilton, Moore County News reporter, was a quarter-mile from the explosion and the heat set his hair blazing.

Most of the dead were taken to the National Guard Armory, where townspeople attempted to identify bodies that were reduced to charcoal.

The estimate that four more bodies may be in the explosion and fire area was made by Moore County Sheriff John Easley.

This Texas Panhandle town of 8,200 was not geared for a disaster this large. But it's a country town, and everybody helps everybody else, and by 11 a.m.—less than four hours after the 7:15 a.m. disaster, all the 32 burned had been taken care of in the previously quiet and calm 40-bed red brick Moore County Memorial Hospital.

Help Is Limited
Earlier, the burned sat in corridors or anywhere else they could find a place—some moaning and crying but otherwise quiet—while the limited staff of doctors and nurses cared for them. For a time, an injection of morphine was all that could be done.

The explosion and fire was on the tank farm of the 75-million-dollar McKee plant of the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corp. with headquarters in Amarillo, Tex. It adjoins the firm's McKee refinery, which was not damaged.

The tank that caused the holocaust was No. 199, a 15,000-barrel mixing arrangement filled with highly explosive pentane used in gasoline refining.

The explosion set off a chain of blasts and fires in surrounding tanks, some used for crude oil storage.

Strong Language On 'Litterbugging'

People who throw offensive refuse on private or public property are guilty of "pig-sty behavior," says the family economics bureau of the North-western National Life Insurance Company.

These are fighting words, but they are true. The "litterbugs" who would throw trash right in one's face would run the risk of violently expressed resentment, and when they do it in secret they are cowardly to boot.

It is costing the American public $15 to $50 a mile per year for the clean-up of refuse strewn along the highways of the various states, according to statistics gathered by this agency. So serious has the problem become that 13 states have recently sharpened their penalties for this offense.

A good indication of the effectiveness of statutory measures is seen in the fact that in Idaho its litterbugging law "is not very enforceable; litter increasing each year." But Georgia levies a maximum fine of $1,000 or a year's imprisonment, and a "noticeable reduction" in this type of offense is reported since the passage of the strengthened law. The same pattern exists in most of the other states that have set up severe penalties.

In all cities there are provisions for municipal garbage and trash disposal, and the cost is not high. Yet there are people of low ethical standards who will travel several miles and dump their trash on the public highway or even on private property. Their time must be very cheap, because it costs more, even under minimum wage regulations, to take the time necessary for the trip than the fee for orderly and lawful removal, to say nothing of the cost of the gasoline, and whatever it takes to cancel self-respect.

If the litterbugs haven't enough common decency to obey the laws against trash dumping, there should be more teeth in the law.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Ike And Dick

Standing on the Great Barrington station waiting for a train to arrive, I overheard the conversation of two ladies and a man on the subject of Ike's health. The point they made was that it is too risky to have a sick man in the White House and that even Walter Lippman says so, which made it final.

Conversations of this nature are peculiarly illogical. Ike is too old; Nixon is too young. Ike lacks physical strength; Nixon has too much. Ike is a part-time President; Nixon is too active a Vice President. More simply stated, it all comes down to this: Eisenhower and Nixon are Republicans and the Democrats are conducting a campaign to defeat them.

Realistically Ike's heart and ileum are the campaign issues. The Democrats have not yet discovered the one slogan that could defeat Eisenhower, but they have his intestines to work on. Averell Harriman has an issue: it is that he is the only man with Presidential aspirations who has never been soft on Communists. He got into a bit of trouble with other Democrats and had to backtrack, but he might have stuck to his guns, for when nearly everybody in official Washington was weak on Communism, Harriman, as Ambassador to Soviet Russia, was sending back dispatches indicating a correct understanding of the problem. I quote a few sentences from Harriman's dispatches from the State Department report on the Malta and Yalta Conferences:

(Russian policy involved the use of a) "... wide variety of means at their disposal—occupation troops, secret police, local communist parties, labor unions, sympathetic leftist organizations, sponsored cultural societies, and economic pressure—to assure the establishment of regimes which, while maintaining an outward appearance of independence and of broad popular support, actually depend for their existence on groups responsive to all suggestions emanating from the Kremlin ..."

Harriman reported this before anyone in official Washington publicly admitted that Stalin had jobbed the United States. Harriman could use his messages to his advantage now that these papers are in the public domain and he probably could gain some support on the Communist issue.

Can anti-Communism be a great issue in 1956? I doubt it. In 1952, anti-Communism was the property of an esoteric group of devoted fanatics, like myself, who had discovered the spies and subversives and shouted against Stalin from the house-tops. In 1956, about everybody is an anti-Communist. It is as fashionable in 1956 to spit upon the memory of Stalin and to regard American Communists as funny nuisances as in 1952, there was a tendency to dislike anti-Communists as stooges of Joe McCarthy. Therefore, "soft on Communism" will not be an issue in this campaign no matter who is nominated.

Richard Nixon started his political upswing as a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. The hatred for him in certain circles originates in the fact that he, more than any other member of this Committee, except Karl Mundt, persisted in the examination of some witnesses with greater intelligence and a keener understanding than is usual with Congressional Committees. Among the witnesses was Alger Hiss. A re-reading of the Hiss hearings before this Committee is convincing that were it not for Nixon, Hiss would have got off scot free and probably it would have been Whittaker Chambers who might have gone to jail.

Alger Hiss made a very good impression on the Committee, but Nixon persisted. I wish to cite a few paragraphs to show Nixon's persistence:

"Mr. Nixon. I have just a few more questions, Mr. Hiss.

"The point at issue in this hearing today is whether or not you knew Crosby under the circumstances that you have indicated to the Committee or whether you knew Crosby under the circumstances he indicated to the Committee. After your testimony in public session the Committee started on the premise that you did not know Chambers and that premise, of course, now has been changed. We do have agreement on the point that you and Mr. Chambers were acquainted under another name.

"Mr. Hiss. I did not know Chambers. The name meant nothing to me and I so informed your Committee by wire. And so testified.

"Mr. Nixon. You understood, Mr. Hiss, I think, that I said 'under another name.'"

"Mr. Hiss. Yes."

Johnson Aids Adlai By Curbing Civil Rights Debate

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON
Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas has just made Adlai Stevenson just about the nicest present that Stevenson could hope for.

By remarkably astute parliamentary tactics, Johnson narrowly prevented a raging civil rights fight at the wind-up of Congress. Thereby, Johnson greatly impaired the strategy of Stevenson's rivals, who want to use the civil rights issue to split the Democratic convention, and incidentally the ranks of Stevenson's supporters. For Stevenson, therefore, Johnson's ounce of prevention was worth several tons of cure.

It is shocking, of course, that the tragic issue of civil rights should always be treated as no better than a political football. But that is the melancholy fact. Beginning at the beginning, if the Eisenhower administration had had the faintest serious desire to pass a civil rights bill, the bill would have been introduced at the beginning of the Congressional session and pushed with maximum power thereafter.

Instead the Administration bill was only offered in May, when it had no possible chance of getting past the usual roadblock of a Southern filibuster. The sole intention, obviously, was to encourage the Democrats to stage an intra-party donnybrook fair. The trick savored of that peculiar brand of slick political smartness for which Attorney General Herbert Brownell is widely and justly celebrated.

Yet the delay in introducing the bill, also helped Lyndon Johnson to frustrate Brownell's scheme. The House was bound to take many weeks to act on the bill. That meant that the bill could only reach the Senate in the closing days of the session. And that meant, in turn, that Johnson would have time on his side.

Throughout the whole session, of course, Johnson had been working overtime to avoid trouble over civil rights. The worst moment was when the Senate had to pass on the nomination of Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff to a Circuit Court judgeship. Because Sobeloff had displeased them by his Supreme Court arguments on school de-segregation, the more fiery Southerners wanted to make the debate on Sobeloff into a sort of white supremacy field day.

Johnson foresaw that a white supremacy field day would invite Senators like Lehman of New York, Hennings of Missouri and Douglas of Illinois to stage a civil rights field day. So he triumphantly held the debate to a minimum, reportedly getting Sen. Olin Johnson of South Carolina, for instance, to cut an angry two-hour oration to a little 20-minute talk.

Johnson's next hurdle was the Republican leadership. If Minority Leader William Knowland of California had chosen to play Brownell's slick trick to the limit, Johnson's bottling up operation could never have succeeded. But President Eisenhower had personally telephoned Johnson to plead for passage of two bills he particularly wanted, the foreign aid bill and the bill to raise executive department salaries. That gave Johnson a lever.

In effect, Johnson told Knowland that the President could either have the bills he had asked for and no civil rights fight, or he could have a civil rights fight and no bills. So Knowland therefore agreed to cooperate with Johnson.

Thus the lines were neatly laid when the civil rights bill finally came over from the House and was referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee. As the chairman of the Judiciary Committee is Sen. James Eastland of Mississippi, the committee could be counted on to hold the bill until kingdom come unless its hand was forced. But there were only two ways to force the committee's hand, and Johnson had already closed off both of them.

The normal expedient was to offer the civil rights bill as an amendment to another bill. But legislative amendments are not in order on appropriations bills. Johnson had left nothing but appropriations bills for last minute action. The other expedient was a motion to discharge the Judiciary Committee. But such motions are not in order except during the "morning hour" that follows the end of a "legislative day." And by merely recessing instead of adjourning each session, Johnson prolonged the Senate's "legislative day" indefinitely. So Lehman, Hennings and the others had to admit defeat.

If a long, bitter civil rights debate in the Senate had generated all the usual bitterness just before the Democratic convention, a repeat performance in Chicago would have been quite unavoidable. But with such civil rights as Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and Sens. Lehman and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota in Stevenson's corner, and with no background of recent bitterness to stir the passions of the convention delegates, the scheme to knock off Stevenson on the civil rights issue now looks a lot less workable.

Now There Are Pills To Screen Out Rays Of Sun

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It now is possible to create a chemical barrier beneath the skin to screen out the rays of the sun. In this way, dermatologists hope to prevent diseases that are produced or affected by light. The filtering product also will help those who are sensitive to ultra-violet by producing a tan before going out of doors.

The barrier is manufactured through the use of anti-malarial drugs. This side effect of these products was discovered by accident several years ago. Atabrine was given to a person suffering from a skin disorder aggravated by light; the patient acquired a yellowish tinge but the dermatitis failed to appear when he was exposed to the sun.

The physician, inquisitive about this reaction, gave additional tests with related anti-malarials (aralen and plaquenil) and similar results were obtained. Later it was determined that all three used in combination will prove more effective than one.

The rationale behind this chemical barrier has been established. The energy of light is inversely proportional to its wave length. The shorter the wave length, the greater the energy. Ultraviolet has a short wave length and when absorbed by the skin, creates enough energy to stimulate certain enzymes which are responsible for the toxic substances that aggravate or precipitate certain skin diseases.

When tablets containing the anti-malarials are swallowed daily, a sufficient amount of the chemicals reaches the skin, forming a chemical filter. These products change ultraviolet to fluorescent light which has a longer wave length. This modified sunlight is too weak to induce the undesirable chemical reactions.

The anti-malarials will have many uses in the field of dermatology. They will help not only those who are sensitive to light but victims of acne, eczema, hives, pityriasis, lupus erythematosus, and other forms of dermatitis aggravated by old Sol.

This new syndrome (light sensitive seborrhea) was noted originally in persons who developed an eruption following exposure to sun and snow glare. A few broke out after sitting under a fluorescent light.

The sebaceous glands on the face are involved primarily and the lesions usually last 10 to 21 days. Improvement was noted in 86 of 92 cases when the three anti-malarial preparations were incorporated into a salve and applied to the affected parts.

Ike Satisfied With 84th Congress, But Chided Knowland On Aid Bill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — In his last meeting with GOP leaders just before Congress adjourned, the President said he was "satisfied" with the legislative record of the 84th Congress, though not exactly jubilant about the boxscore of accomplishment.

The boxscore had been prepared on charts by some of Ike's Madison Avenue advisers, and GOP leaders, looking over Ike's shoulder, could see in separate columns the major bills that had: (1) passed the House, (2) passed the Senate, and (3) received the President's signature.

Scanning these charts, Eisenhower told the leaders:

"I want to thank each of you for all you did to get our program through the Congress. It was a tough job, and I appreciate your efforts. Of course, I didn't get everything I hoped for. But on the whole I am satisfied with the record."

"We're in pretty good shape," he added, apparently meaning that the Republican Party could confidently face the coming campaign. However, he expressed disappointment over the Senate's restriction of foreign aid funds, also the scuttling of the civil rights bill.

There were laughs as he referred to the foreign aid battle in which Senate GOP leader William Knowland helped defeat the President's urgent request for aid to Yugoslavia. Knowland himself managed to muster a grin when Ike looking squarely at him, declared:

"No, I can't say that I am satisfied with the Senate action." He expressed hope that a compromise could be worked out by Senate and House joint conferees to remove the Senate hurdle on any new military aid to Yugoslavia.

Knowland reported that the "practical difficulties of the threatened filibuster" dashed any hope of Senate action on the civil rights bill, already approved by the House.

"With the kind of organized southern opposition we face, there just isn't time to get the bill through the Senate," said Knowland. "Maybe if he had taken it up earlier we would have had a chance, but there was no opportunity with other pressing measures."

"Well, I certainly hope something can be done in the next Congress," the President remarked. "We cannot abandon the responsibility of protecting the rights of minorities. It is not an extreme bill. In fact, it is a very moderate one in my opinion. I can't understand all the fuss about it."

Newsman's Summary

Summarizing the work of Congress from a newsman's sideline, I would say that the 84th Congress was more than usually representative of the people. When the people raise Cain with Congress the Congress listens. When the people are apathetic, Congress listens to the lobbyists.

This Congress more than most I have watched listened to the lobbyists. Some lobbyists are bad, some are good. But if you look over the record of the 84th Congress you see few bills passed without the urging of lobbyists. Here is the scorecard:

THE HIGHWAY BILL — Costing $37,000,000,000 was put across by the truckers, the auto and tire companies, the gasoline companies, and the Teamsters Union. It's a good bill, but it wouldn't have passed, at least at this session, without lobbyist support.

THE SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION BILL — Far more important than highways, the school had no lobbyists behind it. The teachers are not effective. Schoolchildren don't know how to lobby. The White House didn't lift its voice audibly while the school debate was on. The bill did not pass.

HELLS CANYON — A big federal dam on the last big damsite remaining in the USA was blocked by private utility lobbies and powerful White House lobbyists who camped out on Capitol Hill and buttonholed wavering Senators. If the White House had exerted half as much effort for the school bill as it did blocking Hells Canyon, school children would have the promise of new buildings as they start to school in September.

THE FARM BILL — Was passed after much hassling, because of the farm lobbyists, among the most potent in the nation.

OLD AGE PENSIONS — The pension age for women was lowered and disability payments broadened over the protest of the Administration. This came about as a result of pressure from labor and older groups.

MINIMUM WAGES — Were increased from 75 cents to one dollar at the insistence of liberal Democrats and labor unions. The Administration wanted only 90 cents. Unions had little to gain from pushing the bill because most of their members get higher wages. But they wanted to lift the general buying power of the nation.

THE CLEAN ELECTIONS BILL — Had no lobbyists behind it. Phil Graham, publisher of the Washington Post, and Senator Hennings of Missouri pushed it relentlessly, but any Senate leaders who are in a position to get big money from big business or big oil are loath to clean up campaign contributions. The Republicans and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Texas Democrat, both benefited.

INVESTIGATION OF LOBBYING — Obviously there were no lobbyists standing in line to push an investigation of themselves. So this investigation has been scraping slowly through the Washington summer without even revealing its most sensational information—a $5,000 check from Howard Keck of Superior Oil to the Eisenhower dinner list in the middle of the Senate gas debate. Superior Oil has now been indicted, but in connection with the $2,500 which Senator Case rejected, not the $5,000 which the Ike committee kept.

Unexpected Events

By Roger Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Last night I finished Burton Crane's Guide to National Economics, entitled "Getting and Spending." It contains valuable statistics and notes. His conclusion is that if we will build up foreign markets "to keep the world safe," prosperity should continue, with an occasional dip now and then, for an indefinite period. He does not, however, mention "unexpected events." The very next day after I read this book, there occurred the great Wanamaker fire in New York City, which crippled its subway system. The following day Ringling Brothers announced the suspension at Pittsburgh, in the middle of its season, of the "Greatest Show on Earth." Certainly these were unexpected events, although perhaps not great enough to disturb stock markets. However, these events made me interested in studying anew the action of the stock market for the past 100 years. This is what I learned.

Boom And Depression

Business was prosperous during the Civil War and started to boom directly afterward. The sudden death of President Lincoln, however, caused stocks to tumble and a year of depression followed.

Again business began to boom until 1869 saw the famous "Black Friday" come very suddenly due to the corner on the gold market. Stocks quickly rebounded, and again investors were looking forward to several years of prosperity when, in late 1871, the Chicago Fire occurred. This was followed by the great Boston Fire in November 1872. These caused another panic.

The market had just about recovered when the failure of the great banking house of Jay Cooke and Company was suddenly announced. Then, for the first time, the leading stock exchanges closed for several weeks. This unexpected failure brought on the great depression beginning in 1873 and extending for some years.

Suddenly, on July 2, 1881, President Garfield was shot. This started a chain reaction of selling. During this second period, the great banking house of Grant and Ward, plus the two leading "bulls," namely Henry Villard and James R. Keene, announced their failures. Depression, as usual, followed these unexpected events. Business began to correct itself in a few years, however.

The year 1892 was recorded as a year of great prosperity, when suddenly the failure of the National Cordage Company was announced in May 1893. This was then one of the 10 largest corporations and its stock would today be included in the "Blue Chip" group.

The following year the great Pullman strike occurred. This was the first serious strike and it cast great fear and gloom over the country. This was accompanied by a series of crop failures and mortgage foreclosures.

"Undigested Securities"

Again in 1897 business steadily improved and permanent prosperity was prophesied, accompanied by stock splits, mergers, and large security offerings. Suddenly, in 1903, there came another panic due to the still more unexpected cause of "undigested securities." This panic resulted in the investigation of large life insurance and traction companies which were then very popular. The final crash came with the San Francisco earthquake which dragged prices way down.

Up to this time the national government had been friendly to business, with no commissions or other retarding factors. The Supreme Court had been content to decide questions between the states. Suddenly in the early 1900s it issued a decision forbidding the consolidation of the Great Northern Railroad and the Northern Pacific Railroad. This came out of a clear sky and took the zip out of the stock market until the first World War broke. After the closing of the New York Stock Exchange for more than four months, there followed some years of prosperity, then a series of surprise business failures, along with the sinking of the S. S. Lusitania and our entrance into World War I. All went well until 1920 when stock market prices, due to very high interest rates, had another collapse. This was quickly corrected and the stock market continued to advance until it reached an all-time high in 1929.

The unexpected events of this time were the business collapse in Europe with the continued withdrawal of gold, climaxed by the very sudden failure of the Austrian Credit-Anstalt with startling repercussions throughout the world. Then followed several years of depression, with which readers are well acquainted. The stock market for four years had a partial rebound up to 1937.

Reasons For Prosperity

Beginning in 1938 there was a definite recovery in business throughout World War II, but this did not help the stock market much until 1942. With the exception of the severe short readjustment in 1945 and the 1952 steel strike, our country has enjoyed prosperity for about 19 years, with full employment. This has been due to the growth of the installment business, price and wage increases and guarantees, generous pensions, and the easy terms for building and purchasing homes. I agree with Burton Crane that there is nothing now in sight to cause a collapse; but some "unexpected event" may prick the bubble as it has done so many times before.

Strong Language On 'Litterbugging'

People who throw offensive refuse on private or public property are guilty of "pig-sty behavior," says the family economics bureau of the North-western National Life Insurance Company.

These are fighting words, but they are true. The "litterbugs" who would throw trash right in one's face would run the risk of violently expressed resentment, and when they do it in secret they are cowardly to boot.

It is costing the American public $15 to $50 a mile per year for the clean-up of refuse strewn along the highways of the various states, according to statistics gathered by this agency. So serious has the problem become that 13 states have recently sharpened their penalties for this offense.

A good indication of the effectiveness of statutory measures is seen in the fact that in Idaho its litterbugging law "is not very enforceable; litter increasing each year." But Georgia levies a maximum fine of $1,000 or a year's imprisonment, and a "noticeable reduction" in this type of offense is reported since the passage of the strengthened law. The same pattern exists in most of the other states that have set up severe penalties.

In all cities there are provisions for municipal garbage and trash disposal, and the cost is not high. Yet there are people of low ethical standards who will travel several miles and dump their trash on the public highway or even on private property. Their time must be very cheap, because it costs more, even under minimum wage regulations, to take the time necessary for the trip than the fee for orderly and lawful removal, to say nothing of the cost of the gasoline, and whatever it takes to cancel self-respect.

If the litterbugs haven't enough common decency to obey the laws against trash dumping, there should be more teeth in the law.

These Days

Ike And Dick

Standing on the Great Barrington station waiting for a train to arrive, I overheard the conversation of two ladies and a man on the subject of Ike's health. The point they made was that it is too risky to have a sick man in the White House and that even Walter Lippman says so, which made it final.

Conversations of this nature are peculiarly illogical. Ike is too old; Nixon is too young. Ike lacks physical strength; Nixon has too much. Ike is a part-time President; Nixon is too active a Vice President. More simply stated, it all comes down to this: Eisenhower and Nixon are Republicans and the Democrats are conducting a campaign to defeat them.

Realistically Ike's heart and ileum are the campaign issues. The Democrats have not yet discovered the one slogan that could defeat Eisenhower, but they have his intestines to work on. Ike Satisfied With 84th Congress, But Chided Knowland On Aid Bill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — In his last meeting with GOP leaders just before Congress adjourned, the President said he was "satisfied" with the legislative record of the 84th Congress, though not exactly jubilant about the boxscore of accomplishment.

The boxscore had been prepared on charts by some of Ike's Madison Avenue advisers, and GOP leaders, looking over Ike's shoulder, could see in separate columns the major bills that had: (1) passed the House, (2) passed the Senate, and (3) received the President's signature.

Scanning these charts, Eisenhower told the leaders:

"I want to thank each of you for all you did to get our program through the Congress. It was a tough job, and I appreciate your efforts. Of course, I didn't get everything I hoped for. But on the whole I am satisfied with the record."

"We're in pretty good shape," he added, apparently meaning that the Republican Party could confidently face the coming campaign. However, he expressed disappointment over the Senate's restriction of foreign aid funds, also the scuttling of the civil rights bill.

There were laughs as he referred to the foreign aid battle in which Senate GOP leader William Knowland helped defeat the President's urgent request for aid to Yugoslavia. Knowland himself managed to muster a grin when Ike looking squarely at him, declared:

"No, I can't say that I am satisfied with the Senate action."

He expressed hope that a compromise could be worked out by Senate and House joint conferees to remove the Senate hobble on any new military aid to Yugoslavia.

Knowland reported that the "practical difficulties of the threatened filibuster" dashed any hope of Senate action on the civil rights bill, already approved by the House.

"With the kind of organized southern opposition we face, there just isn't time to get the bill through the Senate," said Knowland. "Maybe if he had taken it up earlier we would have had a chance, but there was no opportunity with other pressing measures."

Newsman's Summary

Summarizing the work of Congress from a newsman's sideline, I would say that the 84th Congress was more than usually representative of the people. When the people raise Cain with Congress the Congress listens. When the people are apathetic, Congress listens to the lobbyists.

This Congress more than most I have watched listened to the lobbyists. Some lobbyists are bad, some are good. But if you look over the record of the 84th Congress you see few bills passed without the urging of lobbyists. Here is the scorecard:

THE HIGHWAY BILL — Costing $37,000,000,000 was put across by the truckers, the auto and tire companies, and the Teamsters Union. It's a good bill, but it wouldn't have passed, at least at this session, without lobbyist support.

THE SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION BILL — Far more important than highways, the school had no lobbyists behind it. The teachers are not effective. Schoolchildren don't know how to lobby. The White House didn't lift its voice audibly while the school debate was on. The bill did not pass.

HELLS CANYON — A big federal dam on the last big damsite remaining in the USA was blocked by private utility lobbies and powerful White House lobbyists who camped out on Capitol Hill and buttonholed wavering Senators. If the White House had exerted half as much effort for the school bill as it did blocking Hells Canyon, school children would have the promise of new buildings as they start to school in September.

THE FARM BILL — Was passed after much hassling, because of the farm lobbyists, among the most potent in the nation.

OLD AGE PENSIONS — The pension age for women was lowered and disability payments broadened over the protest of the Administration. This came about as a result of pressure from labor and older groups.

MINIMUM WAGES — Were increased from 75 cents to one dollar at the insistence of liberal Democrats and labor unions. The Administration wanted only 90 cents. Unions had little to gain from pushing the bill because most of their members get higher wages. But they wanted to lift the general buying power of the nation.

THE CLEAN ELECTIONS BILL — Had no lobbyists behind it. Phil Graham, publisher of the Washington Post, and Senator Hennings of Missouri pushed it relentlessly, but any Senate leaders who are in a position to get big money from big business or big oil are loath to clean up campaign contributions. The Republicans and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Texas Democrat, both benefit.

INVESTIGATION OF LOBBYING — Obviously there were no lobbyists standing in line to push an investigation of themselves. So this investigation has been scraping slowly through the Washington summer without even revealing its most sensational information — a $5,000 check from Howard Keck of Superior Oil to the Eisenhower dinner right in the middle of the Senate gas debate. Superior Oil has now been indicted, but in connection with the $2,500 which Senator Case rejected, not the $5,000 which the Ike committee kept.

Unexpected Events

By Roger Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Last night I finished Burton Crane's Guide to National Economics, entitled "Getting and Spending." It contains valuable statistics and notes. His conclusion is that if we will build up foreign markets "to keep the world safe," prosperity should continue, with an occasional dip now and then, for an indefinite period. He does not, however, mention "unexpected events."

The very next day after I read this book, there occurred the great Wana-maker fire in New York City, which crippled its subway system. The following day Ringling Brothers announced the suspension at Pittsburgh, in the middle of its season, of the "Greatest Show on Earth." Certainly these were unexpected events, although perhaps not great enough to disturb stock markets. However, these events made me interested in studying anew the action of the stock market for the past 100 years. This is what I learned.

Boom And Depression
Business was prosperous during the Civil War and started to boom directly afterward. The sudden death of President Lincoln, however, caused stocks to tumble and a year of depression followed.

Again business began to boom until 1869 saw the famous "Black Friday" come very suddenly due to the corner on the gold market. Stocks quickly rebounded, and again investors were looking forward to several years of prosperity when, in late 1871, the Chicago Fire occurred. This was followed by the great Boston Fire in November 1872. These caused another panic.

The market had just about recovered when the failure of the great banking house of Jay Cooke and Company was suddenly announced. Then, for the first time, the leading stock exchanges closed for several weeks. This unexpected failure brought on the great depression beginning in 1873 and extending for some years.

Suddenly, on July 2, 1881, President Garfield was shot. This started a chain reaction of selling. During this second period, the great banking house of Grant and Ward, plus the two leading "bulls," namely Henry Villard and James R. Keene, announced their failures. Depression, as usual, followed these unexpected events. Business began to correct itself in a few years, however.

The year 1892 was recorded as a year of great prosperity, when suddenly the failure of the National Cordage Company was announced in May 1893. This was then one of the 10 largest corporations and its stock would today be included in the "Blue Chip" group.

The following year the great Pullman strike occurred. This was the first serious strike and it cast great fear and gloom over the country. This was accompanied by a series of crop failures and mortgage foreclosures.

"Undigested Securities"
Again in 1897 business steadily improved and permanent prosperity was prophesied, accompanied by stock splits, mergers, and large security offerings. Suddenly, in 1903, there came another panic due to the still more unexpected cause of "undigested securities." This panic resulted in the investigation of large life insurance and traction companies which were then very popular. The final crash came with the San Francisco earthquake which dragged prices way down.

Up to this time the national government had been friendly to business, with no commissions or other retarding factors. The Supreme Court had been content to decide questions between the states. Suddenly in the early 1900s it issued a decision forbidding the consolidation of the Great Northern Railroad and the Northern Pacific Railroad. This came out of a clear sky and took the zip out of the stock market until the first World War broke. After the closing of the New York Stock Exchange for more than four months, there followed some years of prosperity, then a series of surprise business failures, along with the sinking of the S. S. Lusitania and our entrance into World War I. All went well until 1920 when stock market prices, due to very high interest rates, had another collapse. This was quickly corrected and the stock market continued to advance until it reached an all-time high in 1929.

The unexpected events of this time were the business collapse in Europe with the continued withdrawal of gold, climaxed by the very sudden failure of the Austrian Credit-Anstalt with startling repercussions throughout the world. Then followed several years of depression, with which readers are well acquainted. The stock market for four years had a partial rebound up to 1937.

Reasons For Prosperity
Beginning in 1938 there was a definite recovery in business throughout World War II, but this did not help the stock market much until 1942. With the exception of the severe short readjustment in 1945 and the 1952 steel strike, our country has enjoyed prosperity for about 19 years, with full employment. This has been due to the growth of the installment business, price and wage increases and guarantees, generous pensions, and the easy terms for building and purchasing homes.

I agree with Burton Crane that there is nothing now in sight to cause a collapse; but some "unexpected event" may prick the bubble as it has done so many times before.

Barrelville, Zihlman and Mt. Savage Triumph In Pen-Mar

Old Germans Chalk Up 9th Straight, 8-2

Wellersburg Victim; Lookabaugh Halts Bombers' Skid, 7-1

PEN-MAR LEAGUE
	W	L	Pct.
Barrelville	17	4	.810
Zihlman	16	6	.727
Mt. Savage	14	8	.636
Centerville	11	11	.500

Mt. Savage's Old Germans extended their winning streak to nine games, Barrelville retained its lead of 1½ games by breaking a three-game losing streak and Zihlman stayed right on the heels of the leaders by winning yesterday in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

Mt. Savage, which hasn't tasted defeat since June 24, took the measure of Wellersburg yesterday by the score of 8-2, Barrelville turned back Hyndman on the Pennsylvanians' field, 7-1, Zihlman won at Centerville, 6-3, and Grantsville's Sluggers edged Flintstone, 6-5, in ten innings at Grantsville.

Lewis Notches Third

Tommy Lewis posted his third straight win of the season for Mt. Savage, turning back Wellersburg with six hits while mowing down six via the strikeout route. Johnny Horvath, who worked on the firing line for Wellersburg, was touched for 11 safeties, including triples by Joe Langan and Woody Woodson and a double by Winfield. Winfield, Cassidy and Woodson shared six of the winning team's hits. Bob Cessa rapped a double and single to pace Wellersburg.

Barrelville exploded for six runs in the top of the seventh inning to crash the win column at Hyndman. Four hits, including a two-run single by Galen McGregor and a two-run double by Bob Lookabaugh, coupled with two walks and an error netted the Bombers six runs in the 7th after they had taken a 1-0 lead in the 6th.

Lookabaugh Wins Third

Lookabaugh went the route for Barrelville, granted only three hits, fanned a half dozen and registered his third straight triumph of the season. Hyndman's hits were singles by Clites and Bryant and a two-bagger by Keller. Stan Corley, the first of three Hyndman pitchers, was charged with the loss. He fanned nine before being replaced by Roy Evans in the 7th. Jim Leydig finished on the rubber for the Pennsylvanians.

Lou Hite rapped a triple and single and Galen McGregor and Lookabaugh had two singles each for the winners.

Jack Brodie, the league's winningest pitcher, came on in the 6th frame to save the win for Ronnie Rice as Zihlman trimmed Centerville. It was Rice's second win against four setbacks. Ronnie fanned three and Brodie whiffed four.

Dunn Gets Four Hits

Tommy Dunn sparked the Zihlman attack, accounting for four of the 12 hits while Duncan hit safely thrice. Dave and Dwight Rose had two hits each for the Bedford countians, who dropped to an even .500 with 11 wins and 11 defeats. Glenn Deremer suffered his fifth loss. He has won seven games.

Joe Wenger singled home Les Hunter in the 10th inning to give reliever Earl Gracie, Grantsville relief pitcher, the decision over Donnie Lease at Flintstone.

Flintstone knotted the count in the top of the ninth on a timely single by Dwight Morris, who collected three of the Farmers' six bingles.

Perry Clouts Homer

"Junie" Perry smashed a homer and triple, Bob Lyons a three-bagger and single, "Pinky" Thompson a double and single and Johnny Keister and Rudy Telek a pair of one-base knocks each for the Garrett countians.

In Saturday games, Mt. Savage topped Barrelville, 10-8, Zihlman downed Flintstone, 7-1, Hyndman won over Grantsville, 9-2, and Centerville clobbered Wellersburg, 19-5. Yesterday's results:

U.S. Netmen Advance In Davis Cup Tests

VICTORIA, B.C., July 29 (AP)—Ham Richardson gave the United States its fourth straight victory over Canada today in the American Zone Davis cup semifinals trimming Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke Que. 6-4, 6-4, 13-11.

The Yanks sewed up the American zone semifinals yesterday when two eager young collegians, Ron Holmberg of Tulane and Barry McKay of the University of Michigan, trimmed Bedard and Don Fontana of Toronto 6-3, 3-6, 10-12, 6-4, 6-3.

The triumph put the U.S. into the zone finals against Mexico next month in Rye, N.Y.

Jimmy Kline Makes It 5-0 As Exchange Triumphs, 4-2

Eichner Hits Eighth Homer; Times-News Whips Rotary, 11-4

HOT STOVE LEAGUE
	W	L	Pct.
Exchange	12	4	.750
Times-News	12	5	.706
Rotary	9	5	.643
Jaycees	10	6	.625

The Exchange Club defeated the Optimist Club, 4-2, and the Times-News took the measure of the Rotary Club, 11-4, yesterday and remained a half game apart in the pennant race of the Hot Stove Baseball League.

In another game, the Jaycees edged B'nai B'rith, 5-4, and the Lions Club suffered its 15th consecutive defeat at the hands of the Kiwanis Club, 16-7.

Jimmy Kline chalked up his fifth win of the campaign by tossing a five-hitter for the Exchange Club. He is unbeaten this season.

Fred Eichner was the "big gun" for Exchange with a single, triple and his eighth homer of the year. He drove in three runs. "Punk" Felten and Jimmy Kline got the winners' other hits.

"Tufty" Marralle led the Optimists with three hits in three official trips. One of his wallpops was a 2-bagger. Ronnie Long and Peck accounted for the other safeties.

Newsies Gather 13 Hits

Times-News swatsmiths racked up 13 hits in routing the Rotarians. Donald Nave with a triple, double and single and Ted McGraw with three singles sparked the Newsies. Billy DeArcangelis banged a triple and single and John Delagrangé smacked a pair of singles.

Scaletta, Shoup and Cannon shared six of the Rotary Club's eight blows.

Roger Growden started on the peak for the Times-News and got credit for the win. Bill Scott came on in the fourth and a double play executed by DeArcangelis and Owings with the bases loaded halted a Rotary rally.

Crouch Notches Fourth

Floyd Crouch made his record 4-0 for the campaign in twirling the Jaycees to victory over B'nai B'rith. He scattered eight hits, fanned eight and gave up four bases on balls.

Clarence Kean, Jack Cranor and Bobby Gaffney had two hits each for the Jaycees while Ronnie Gulbranson, keystone sacker, featured afield. One of Kean's belts was a two-bagger. "Turtle" Slonaker paced the B'nai B'rith stickers with three singles, Bernard Barbe rapped a pair of doubles and threw out three Jaycee runners at third base. Bill Colbert, who supplanted Slonaker in the fifth inning, turned in a nice relief stint. He came in with three on and none out, walked in one run and fanned the side. During his brief stay on the hillcock he whiffed six and walked two. Bobby Imes excelled at first base for the losers, handling nine chances without a slipup.

Kiwanians Belt Ball

The Kiwanians exploded for 19 hits to crush the winless Lions in the second game of a twin bill at Stitches Field.

Jerry Brode connected for four singles, Gary Henry collected a double and two singles and Mike

Hadra, Mike Zembower and "Butch" Brotemarkle garnered two safeties each. Henry yielded six hits, three of which were credited to Baldwin, fanned eleven and gave up ten free tickets. Owings had two hits for the losers. Hauger was charged with the loss. Scores:

Vic Seixas Beats Larsen For Title

PHILADELPHIA, July 29 (AP)—Vic Seixas warmed up for next week's Davis Cup matches against Mexico with a straight set victory today over Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif. to win his seventh Pennsylvania State Lawn Tennis Championship.

The 32-year-old Seixas played some of the finest tennis of his career, smashing through the former national champion 7-5, 6-1, 6-4.

In the women's doubles final, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif. and Mrs. William duPont of Wilmington, Del. defeated Mrs. Francis Vosters, also of Wilmington, and Barbara Green of Beverly Hills 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Pitcher Dobrino of Iowa led the Big Ten in strikeouts with 41, one more than Galen Cisco of Ohio State.

Skowron Poles Pair Of Homers, Yanks Win, 5-3

Turley Fans Nine A's, Bags 5th Win

KANSAS CITY, July 29 (AP)—Bill Skowron smashed two home runs and Hank Bauer one today as the New York Yankees defeated the Kansas City Athletics 5-3, sweeping their 3-game series.

The Athletics grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Bob Turley when Lou Skizas hit a home run with Hector Lopez aboard. The A's added their other run in the fourth.

Skowron slammed a solo homer in the fourth and then climaxed a 3-run fifth-inning rally when he homered with Yogi Berra on base. The two homers boosted Skowron's season total to 15.

Last night Skowron drove in seven runs on two homers and two singles. Bauer added an insurance run in the eighth with his 20th run of the year.

A crowd of 30,257 witnessed the game which featured a birthday cake-cutting ceremony for Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees.

Turley got credit for the victory, his fifth against two losses, although he needed help from Rip Coleman in the ninth.

Turley struck out nine and walked six as he made his first start since July 6 when he defeated Washington, 8-4.

Art Ditmar went the route for the Athletics for his 12th loss against eight victories. He yielded eight hits.

Palmer Is Eastern Open Winner By Two Strokes

Latrobe Pro's 277 Brings Him $3,800; Finsterwald Second

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, July 29 (AP)—Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa. struggled to equal Mount Pleasant's par 72 today, but it was good enough to win the Eastern Open by two strokes from a threatening Dow Finsterwald who faltered in the stretch.

The final round par, first time in four tries that Palmer had failed to beat it, gave him a total of 277.

Finsterwald, from Bedford Heights, Ohio, had a three-stroke edge on par in the first five holes and was only one behind Palmer who had started the last round with a four-stroke lead.

But Finsterwald couldn't get another birdie until the last hole. And in because he took two straight bogey fives on the 15th and 16th holes by three-puttings.

Finsterwald Runner-Up

Finsterwald's final 70 gave him a 279 total and second prize money of $2,150, which restored him as leading earner with $23,821. Palmer's first prize was $3,800, boosting his golf earnings this year to $12,709.

Bob Rosburg of San Francisco and Jerry Kesselring of Toronto matched Finsterwald's 70 on their last round to tie for third place at total 281. Bud Holscher of Apple Valley, Calif. and Jay Herbert of Sanford, Fla. shared fifth place at 282, the latter pulling up with a final 68.

Palmer, winning his second tournament on the U.S. circuit this year, couldn't break par until the 10th hole where he dropped a six-footer, "the only putt I made all day." But par got even with him on the 12th as he took three shots to get down from the edge of the green for a bogey five. Otherwise, he played par golf.

Finsterwald made a strong early run to overtake Palmer. He birdied the first hole with a seven-foot putt and made 12-footers on the third and fifth for two more.

His 15th and 16th bogeys put him practically a hopeless three down although he finished with a flourishing birdie putt of eight feet on the last hole.

Winner 11-Under-Par

Palmer's 277 total was 11 strokes under par for the 72 holes of the 6,895-yard course.

Scottish Team Cops Sports Car Race At LeMans

LE MANS, France, July 29 (AP)—The Scottish team of Ror Flockhart and Ninian Sanderson streaked to victory today after 24 hours of gruelling driving in a renewal of the La Mans Grand Prix endurance race marked by accidents, foul weather and one death.

Driving a private 3½ litre Jaguar, Flockhart and Sanderson covered 2,521 miles, an average speed of about 104.3 miles an hour, to win by minutes from an Aston-Martin driven by British racers Peter Collins and Stirling Moss.

Flockhart's and Sanderson's victory enabled a Jaguar to win the famed sports car test for the second straight year.

The race brought death to French driver Louis Hery and caused several minor injuries.

Hery piled into a tree during the first lap yesterday and died of head injuries.

Cincinnati Cops Pair Pirates in Milwaukee By 2 1/2 Games

Redlegs Grab Four Straight From Pirates

Lawrence Wins, 6-1; Freeman Takes 2nd In Relief Role, 3-2

PITTSBURGH, July 29 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs swept a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates today, defeating them 3-2 in the second game on a tie-breaking, ninth-inning double by Smoky Burgess, after whipping them 6-1 in the first game behind the four-hit pitching of Brooks Lawrence.

The power-packed, second place Redlegs got only one extra base hit — Burgess' double — as they chalked up a record of four straight victories over the Pirates in the current 5-game series that ends tomorrow night. They trail Milwaukee by 2 1/2 games.

Credit for the second game victory went to Hershel Freeman, who relieved the Reds' starter, Don Gross, at the beginning of the eighth inning. Freeman finished the game, didn't allow a hit, fanned one and issued one walk.

Gross fanned seven Pirates, walked one and gave up seven hits including a triple by Bill Virdon and a double by Frank Thomas.

The second game loss was charged to the Pirate starter, Vernon Law, who gave up all 11 Cincinnati hits and was yanked in the ninth after Burgess had trapped him for his double.

The first game loss was charged to Bob Friend, his ninth against 12 wins.

Detroit, Senators Split Double Bill

DETROIT, July 29 (AP)—The Washington Senators and the Detroit Tigers divided a doubleheader today, the Nats taking the nightcap 4-1 behind Dean Stone's four-hitter after the Tigers' Billy Hoelt turned in a 6-0 whitewash in the opener.

Bob Kennedy cracked a two-out, ninth-inning home run for the only score off Stone. The slim southpaw appeared headed for Washington's first shutout in 114 games — 96 of them this year — but Kennedy drove a fast ball into the lower left-field deck.

Until Kennedy's blow, Stone had not permitted a Detroit runner past second base. He struck out six and walked five.

The Senators went to work early on young Jim Bunning, making his first start since being called up from Charleston of the American Assn. Bunning was routed in the fourth inning after giving up three runs and five hits.

Relievers Bob Miller and Steve Gromek checked the Senators on a single run after that but the Tigers could not solve the southpaw slants of Stone, who evened his record at 3-3.

Hoelt struck out 12 in recording his 12th victory in the first game. He has lost nine. He also broke a three-game personal losing streak.

Cardinals Edge Giants In 10th

Stan Musial's Hit Decides Game, 3-2

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—Stan Musial's single scored Don Blasingame for a 3-2 St. Louis victory over the New York Giants in the 10th inning today as Al Dark led the attack on his old mates with four hits.

Dark, former Giant shortstop, had three singles and a double among the Cards' 10 hits off Johnny Antonelli. Marv Grissom and loser Hoyt Wilhelm.

After Blasingame beat out a hit to short with one out in the 10th, Dark reached up to hit a single. Musial then singled to right, his first hit of the day, scoring Blasingame.

The Giants had a chance to win it in the last of the ninth when Daryl Spencer and Foster Castleman singled with two out. But pinch-hitter Bobby Hofman grounded to Dark.

Willie Mays hit his 16th home run off winner Tom Poholsky in the fourth but Bobby DeGregio tied the score in the fifth with his sixth homer. The Cards went ahead in the sixth on Dark's double and Ken Boyer's single. Then the Giants came back to tie the score in the seventh on Mays' single, a wild pitch and an error by Boyer on Spencer's grounder.

Roy Smalley's 2-Run Triple Spills Braves

Phils Hand Spahn Eighth Defeat, 5-2; Simmons Is Victor

PHILADELPHIA, July 29 (AP)—Roy Smalley's triple in the eighth inning broke up a tie ball game and gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5-2 victory over the league-leading Milwaukee Braves today.

It was Smalley's second three-bagger of the game and scored Willie Jones and Andy Seminick, who had walked. Richie Ashburn's single brought in Smalley to wind things up.

The Braves had tied the game at 2-2 in the fifth on veteran Andy Paik's 20th major league home run. Warren Spahn, who took his eighth defeat in 18 decisions, scored ahead of Paik.

The Phils, sweeping the two-game series to increase their season's edge over the leaders, went out in front on single runs in the opening innings.

Granny Hamner singled home Ashburn, who had doubled, in the first. In the second, Jim Greengrass scored when Ashburn's pop fly dropped between Milwaukee third baseman Eddie Mathews and shortstop Johnny Logan for a tainted single.

Southpaw Curt Simmons was the winner, his fourth in a row. It was his seventh of the season against six defeats. The Phillies hit Spahn freely through 7 1/3 innings, but until the eighth-inning uprising he held the home side in check. Ray Crone relieved after Ashburn's single, and got the side out.

After Blasingame beat out a hit to short with one out in the 10th, Dark reached up to hit a single. Musial then singled to right, his first hit of the day, scoring Blasingame.

The Giants had a chance to win it in the last of the ninth when Daryl Spencer and Foster Castleman singled with two out. But pinch-hitter Bobby Hofman grounded to Dark.

Indians Blank Orioles Twice

Score And Aguirre Post 3-0, 4-0 Wins

CLEVELAND, July 29 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' two young left-handers—Herb Score and Hank Aguirre—hurled a pair of shutouts over the Baltimore Orioles today.

Score pitched a four-hitter to win the opener 3-0. Aguirre followed with a seven-hit, 4-0 victory, aided by a three-run homer by Vic Wertz, his 24th of the season.

In the second game, Wertz broke open a scoreless duel between Aguirre and Don Ferrarese with a blast over the right-field fence in the sixth inning.

It scored Gene Woodling, who had doubled, and Al Smith, who had walked. After going hitless in six times at bat against Baltimore pitchers, the homer ran Wertz' runs-batted-in total to 78.

Aguirre, recalled recently from the Indians' farm club at Indianapolis, posted his second major league victory against no losses. He got his first victory in relief.

Score, 23, ran his league-leading strikeout total to 149 in posting his 10th victory in 16 decisions in the first game.

Palica fanned seven and gave up only five hits in the seven innings he worked. He set the Indians down in order in four innings.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 29 (INS) — Cy Howard called Louella Parsons in Majorca from Cannes to tell her that he's written and will produce in Europe "The Tourist" with Arthur O'Connell playing Mr. Average American who takes his family abroad for the first time. "The real tourists in Europe this year are running the gamut," the boss reports. "With all the overcrowding, high prices, lack of accommodations, they are by turn, sad, glad and mad."

But she thinks there are many amusing angles in Cy's idea—particularly with Arthur O'Connell, who was so wonderful in "Picnic" playing the put-upon head of the traveling family. There's also a chance that Howard, who put "My Friend Irma" on TV may serialize "The Tourist" for television.

Old cutie-pie Bob Hope covers both the Democratic and Republican conventions for International News Service as a full-fledged newspaperman. Bob last penned his thoughts on politics for the same syndicate in 1952 and his pronouncements should be pips. Sort of a male Lady Nora Docker, maybe?

On the movie side, Bob is happily counting the receipts on "That Certain Feeling" and readying the Jimmy Walker story, "Beau James," his next for Paramount. He'd like very much to make another picture with Eva Marie Saint—as who wouldn't?

Elaine Stewart didn't have to wait long after asking for and receiving her release from MGM for her next movie job. She moves to Universal-International for the role of the love-starved socialite in "The Tattered Dress" with Jeff Chandler and Jeanne Crain.

Until this break, Elaine was an unhappy girl about her career. MGM hasn't had anything good for her in two years despite the attention she rated in "The Bad and the Beautiful."

She had agreed to do "Bus Stop" in summer stock at the Gristmill Playhouse in Andover, New Jersey, but this fling on the stage may have to wait now until the U-I picture starting August 13.

Hollywood in shorts:

Jayne Mansfield called from New York (her little girl kept getting on an extension chirping "Who is this, who is this?") very excited about singing and dancing on TV for the first time on the August 12 spectacular, "Atlantic City Holiday." With the stage, film offers and TV, Jayne opined, "I'm really rounding out."

The gracious Mrs. Douglas MacArthur and son Arthur thrilled

ringsiders at the Mocambo and actually had Hazel Scott jittery on the piano when the general's wife made one of her rare night club appearances.

When Manny Frank, with Peggy Maley, at the Interlude was asked about a possible reconciliation between him and Vivian Blaine, he said, "Oh, there's talk."

Don Barry isn't always making coffee. He coaches the Studio City Cubs Little League baseball team and is plenty proud of his 12-year-old son, Mike, who has pitched nine inning games this year.

Having flown from London just for the wedding Saturday of Peter Douglas to Virginia Lang, in New York, Sharman Douglas and her father, ex-Ambassador Lewis Douglas, plane right back again Monday morning.

The so-attractive Phyllis Taneley gets another of her sophisticate roles in "The Trophy" for Schlitz Playhouse TV.

C. B. DeMille likes to preview his biggies far, far from Hollywood. The word is out that "The Ten Commandments" will be viewed by its first audience in Salt Lake City.

The Paul Trousdale (he bought the famed Doheny Ranch estates) back from New York and dining at the Bel Air Hotel.

That's all today.

Start a campaign against "I." Don't let it take over the conversation.

Secrets Of Charm

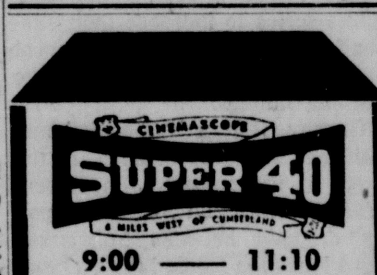

by John Robert Powers

Opposed Say "I"

The alphabet has twenty-six letters, and none of them appear more than once. But you wouldn't think so to hear some people talk. From their conversation it would seem that the letter "I" was the first letter of the alphabet, and the last, and more than one in between.

It's a good idea every now and then to make sure you're not too ready with the use of "I" yourself. Listen for it as you talk until it registers every time. It may be surprising how many times it does creep into the conversation, once you're aware of it. How often do you use it to start a sentence? How often do you make a comment, important or unimportant, with an "I" dominated remark? Have you gotten into the habit of emphasizing "I" by tone of voice? Listen to see. That emphasis, even though it's gentle right now, isn't making you more interesting to listen to. And it has a way of growing stronger as the person using it tries harder and harder to command attention. We all want to express our opinions, but they're valued less and less as we grow more and more insistent about having them heard.

There's danger in using "I" too much because it can so easily mean expressing personal views when they're uncalled for, to those with whom conversation should be impersonal. There's even something wrong about the use of "I" too often by the person you're talking with as well as by yourself. It's too likely to mean that the conversation hasn't lifted from the ordinary. Remember the old saying, "Little people talk about things—bigger ones talk about ideas—and big people talk about ideas."

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 29 (INS) — Cy Howard called Louella Parsons in Majorca from Cannes to tell her that he's written and will produce in Europe "The Tourist" with Arthur O'Connell playing Mr. Average American, who takes his family abroad for the first time.

"The real tourists in Europe this year are running the gamut," the boss reports. "With all the overcrowding, high prices, lack of accommodations, they are by turn, sad, glad and mad."

But she thinks there are many amusing angles in Cy's idea—particularly with Arthur O'Connell, who was so wonderful in "Picnic" playing the put-upon head of the traveling family. There's also a chance that Howard, who put "My Friend Irma" on TV may serialize "The Tourist" for television.

Old cutie-pie Bob Hope covers both the Democratic and Republican conventions for International News Service as a full-fledged newspaperman. Bob last penned his thoughts on politics for the same syndicate in 1952 and his pronouncements should be pips. Sort of a male Lady Nora Docker, maybe?

On the movie side, Bob is happily counting the receipts on "That Certain Feeling" and readying the Jimmy Walker story, "Beau

James," his next for Paramount. He'd like very much to make another picture with Eva Marie Saint—as who wouldn't?

Elaine Stewart didn't have to wait long after asking for and receiving her release from MGM for her next movie job. She moves to Universal-International for the role of the love-starved socialite in "The Tattered Dress" with Jeff Chandler and Jeanne Crain.

Until this break, Elaine was an unhappy girl about her career. MGM hasn't had anything good for her in two years despite the attention she rated in "The Bad and the Beautiful."

She had agreed to do "Bus Stop" in summer stock at the Gristmill Playhouse in Andover, New Jersey, but this fling on the stage may have to wait now until the U-I picture starting August 13.

Hollywood in shorts:

Jayne Mansfield called from New York her little girl kept getting on an extension chirping "Who is this, who is this?" very excited about singing and dancing on TV for the first time on the August 12 spectacular, "Atlantic City Holiday." With the stars, film offers and TV, Jayne opined, "I'm really rounding out."

The gracious Mrs. Douglas MacArthur and son Arthur thrilled

ringsiders at the Mocambo and actually had Hazel Scott jittery on the piano when the general's wife made one of her rare night club appearances.

When Manny Frank, with Peggy Maley, at the Interlude was asked about a possible reconciliation between him and Vivian Blaine, he said, "Oh, there's talk."

Don Barry isn't always making coffee. He coaches the Studio City Cubs Little League baseball team and is plenty proud of his 12-year-old son, Mike, who has pitched nine inning games this year.

Having flown from London just for the wedding Saturday of Peter Douglas to Virginia Lang, in New York, Sharman Douglas and her father, ex-Ambassador Lewis Douglas, plane right back again Monday morning.

The so-attractive Phyllis Taneley gets another of her sophisticated roles in "The Trophy" for Schlitz Playhouse TV.

C. B. DeMille likes to preview his biggies far, far from Hollywood. The word is out that "The Ten Commandments" will be viewed by its first audience in Salt Lake City.

The Paul Trousdale (he bought the famed Doheny Ranch estates) back from New York and dining at the Bel Air Hotel.

That's all today.

Start a campaign against "I." Don't let it take over the conversation.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Opposed Say "I"

The alphabet has twenty-six letters, and none of them appear more than once. But you wouldn't think so to hear some people talk. From their conversation it would seem that the letter "I" was the first letter of the alphabet, and the last, and more than one in between.

It's a good idea every now and then to make sure you're not too ready with the use of "I" yourself. Listen for it as you talk until it registers every time. It may be surprising how many times it does creep into the conversation, once you're aware of it. How often do you use it to start a sentence? How often do you make a comment, important or unimportant, with an "I" dominated remark? Have you gotten into the habit of emphasizing "I" by tone of voice? Listen to see. That emphasis, even though it's gentle right now, isn't making you more interesting to listen to. And it has a way of Viennoise Schmaltz self off as a marquis. The singer surprised in the wife's boudoir, is trundled off to jail, mistaken for Mr. Ritchard.

"Rosalinda," adapted from the Max Reinhardt production based on "Die Fledermaus," which was done on an NBC color spectacular the other night, contains not only a great many of Johann Strauss's most lilting and most often played waltzes, but also one of the most rococo and elaborate operetta plots of all times.

This is a great classic example of the "little does he know that I am Prince Wertenberg von Holstein" type of line, which automatically makes the "little does he know that I know that he is..." and so forth. The confusion becomes utter along about the middle of the second act, when everyone is passing himself off as somebody else in an attempt to make time with somebody else's wife.

"Rosalinda," in short, is unabashed schmaltz and a lot of fun, especially when performed by as capable a cast as that assembled by the Los Angeles and San Francisco Light Opera Association for this production, which was altogether sumptuous. Cyril Ritchard, a wonderful comedian, set the tone of the proceedings right at the outset by singing — or rather reciting — a song to the effect that no one had any inhibitions in Vienna, despite the fact that Freud lived right down the street.

There was also some fine mass choral singing of Strauss's lovely songs and, of course, a great deal of waltzing. All this, of course, was designed to show what the color-

Plotwise, things then get delicious. Mr. Ritchard is ordered to jail for protesting against an opera singer who is serenading Mr. Ritchard's wife. But before going to jail he attends, naturally, the Prince's ball, where he palms himself off as a prince.

Dishing up this Viennese whip cream was a fine cast, which included, besides Mr. Ritchard, who is just about perfect in this sort of thing, Jean Fenn, Lois Hunt and Sig Arno. It was all very light-hearted, gay and tuneful, a perfect treat for a summer evening.

Frostburg Meets
Berkeley-Hancock
Little Leaguers

Frostburg's All-Stars will tackle the Berkeley Springs-Hancock All-Stars today at 6 p. m., at Hancock in the District 7 Little League playoffs. Today's contest will be a quarter-final round tilt.

Frostburg got off to a good start in the playoffs by beating the Pen-Mar Little League All-Stars last week by the score of 3-2.

Berkeley-Hancock eliminated Williamsport, 5-3, to advance to the quarter final round.

NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 127 of the Charter of the City of Cumberland, Maryland (1950 Edition), notice is hereby given that the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland did, in regular session Monday, July 9, 1958, approve the Report of Commissioners on the closing of Summit Avenue from its intersection with Byrd Avenue, eastwardly for a distance of approximately 218 feet. Said Commissioners were appointed by Ordinance No. 2018 for the purpose of assessing any damages or benefits incurred by or accruing to any owners of property affected by the closing of said street. After meeting on the premises and hearing those persons who would be affected by the closing of said street, the Commissioners present the following:

"It is the unanimous opinion of all the Commissioners appointed to assess damages or benefits resulting from the closing of the above described section of Summit Avenue that no damages have resulted to any property owners abutting on Summit Avenue from the action of the City in closing the aforementioned section of said avenue and likewise, there are no benefits accruing to adjacent property owners as a result of said action. If there is any benefit accruing to anyone, it would be the Cumberland Valley Broadcasting Corporation, and we feel that any benefit accruing to said company will be offset by the action of this company in dedicating the new means of ingress and egress herein above mentioned to public use.

We further direct that the Cumberland Valley Broadcasting Corporation pay all costs incident to the closing of said section of Summit Avenue as these proceedings were instituted at the request of the aforesaid corporation."

Any person, persons, firm or corporation feeling aggrieved by the decision of the Commissioners may appeal therefrom within thirty (30) days after July 9, 1958 by filing written notice of such appeal with the City Clerk of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, who will transmit same to the Circuit Court for Allegany County to be docketed for jury trial.

Doby's Hitting
Features Double
Win For Chisox

Bosox Lose, 11-2, 6-3;
Pierce Notches No. 16

CHICAGO, July 29 (AP)—Larry Doby pulled the Chicago White Sox out of their midsummer doldrums today by knocking around eight runs on a pair of homers and a two-run double to help deal the Boston Red Sox a double loss, 11-2 and 6-3.

Doby blasted a pair of homers in the opener and shared RBI honors with Walt Dropo, each getting five, while Billy Pierce remained the winningest pitcher in the majors with his 16th triumph.

Doby snapped a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning of the second game with his two-run double after Fred Hatfield had tied the count with a pinch homer, his fourth of the season.

Mel Parnell, who pitched a no-hitter against the White Sox July 14, started the second game but was lifted in the seventh inning after the Sox had loaded the bases on a single and two walks with Boston ahead 2-1.

Ike Delock relieved Parnell and sacrifice batter Ron Northey hit a sacrifice fly to tie it up.

Delock was charged with his sixth loss against eight victories and Paul LaPalme, third Chicago pitcher, was credited with his first American League triumph against no losses.

In the opener, Doby slammed his 11th homer in the second with two on and his 12th in the eighth with one on.

Today's Sermonette

Christ's disciples as being many members in one body. The appeal comes to all of us to use our diversified abilities according to the grace that is given to us. Gladly we should give our bodies as living sacrifices unto the work of this one body—the church—of which we are each one a part. Bear in mind when you do anything to injure one who is a member of the church you are hurting the church. You cannot hurt the church without hurting Christ who is the head of the church. When one member of your body suffers your whole body suffers with it. When one member of the church suffers all members suffer. When one is honored all the members rejoice together.

In the New Testament the church is likened unto a bride, Christ is the bridegroom. How we love the church, His bride. How we rejoice at the sound of the voice of the Bridegroom. There is joy in our hearts when we feel the loving presence of the Bridegroom.

Paul speaks of this great mystery in Ephesians (Chapter 5) showing that Christ and His church are as husband and wife. Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it. "That He might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word. That He might present it to Himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish...for we are members of His body, of His flesh, and of His bones."

NEW YORK, July 29 (INS)—Adlai Stevenson's supporters, if he makes it at Chicago, will have a new campaign gimmick: Stickers which pluck passages from his speeches of the past. These will be attached to their every day mail, something like the stickers the Hollywood people used to send out — "But Christmas seals and stamp out TV."

A friend sends me a sample 25 cent package. It contains 20 stickers but—Mr. Stevenson should be told—only five topics. Certainly he has talked on more points than that. Anyway, here's a preview:

"On freedom—Most all of us favor free enterprise for business. Let us also favor free enterprise for the mind. In the last analysis we would fight to the death to protect it."

"On voting—If the voters of this nation ever stop looking at the record and the character of candidates, and look only at their party label, it will be a sorry day for democracy."

"On world peace—Co-existence is not a form of passive acceptance of things as they are. It is waging the contest between freedom and tyranny by peaceful means."

BALTIMORE, July 29 (AP)—Ten jockeys, three of them still active, have been nominated to the Jockeys Hall of Fame at Pimlico by a 32-man committee of horse racing experts.

National voting by 1,200 sports-writers and broadcasters will pick three of the 10 for permanent places in the Hall of Fame during Pimlico's fall meeting.

On the ballot will be Johnny Adams, Ted Atkinson, Johnny Longden, Isaac Murphy, Tod Sloan, Laverne Fator, Raymond Workman, Walter Miller, Edward Garrison and Mack Garner.

Longden, Atkinson and Adams are still active and according to Hall of Fame rules only one will be permitted to be elected for a permanent niche in the gallery on this ballot.

The three active jockeys have a combined total of 69 racing years behind them and each has passed the 3,000 mark in winners. Longden, at 41, is approaching the 5,000 figure.

In 1955 voting, Eddie Arcaro, Earl Sande and George Woolf were elected to the Hall of Fame. Oil paintings of each and bronze plaques telling of their riding feats hang in the 86-year-old Maryland Jockey Club building at Pimlico.

The dear hostess reacted in an odd way. While we all wheezed in relief she picked up the P.A. mike and said, "Welcome aboard Flight 320. Our flying time to Dallas this morning will be 53 minutes. Breakfast will be served en route. Thank you."

29th Division Commences Summer Field Training

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., July 29 (AP)—The 29th Infantry Division of the Virginia and Maryland National Guard set up camp today for tomorrow's start of their two weeks of summer field training.

Most units of the 7,500-man group arrived at this military reservation about 20 miles east of Harrisburg yesterday while units from the southern Virginia area arrived today.

The encampment is designed to supplement the once-a-week drill instructions at local armories throughout the year.

Armored units of the 29th Division have already completed their summer training at Fort Knox, Ky., while "a anti-aircraft battalion from "Idewater, Va., will train at Fort Miles, Del., in August.

Highlight of the Indiantown Gap encampment will be the annual Governor's Day review and parade next Saturday. Govs. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia and Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland are slated to review the division.

During the two weeks the troops will go into the field to live and execute tactical maneuvers while artillerymen will spend much of their time on the firing ranges.

This is the third straight year the division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Henry C. Evans, Baltimore, encamped at Indiantown Gap.

Truck Rams Station Wagon

A large truck loaded with carnival equipment rammed into a station wagon at the Greene Street intersection of the new Blue Bridge yesterday at 12:30 p.m.

Boy Falls, Dies As He Strangles In Baling Twine

3-Year-Old Tot Found By Brother

A three-year-old boy strangled to death yesterday in a freak accident at Pocomoke, Pa. He was the third area child to meet accidental death in two days.

Wayne Joseph Hostetter, son of C. Carl and Verna Catherine (Clark) Hostetter of Pocomoke, died when he caught his neck in a roll of baling twine.

Wayne had been riding a pony with his brother, Paul, 14.

The two boys took the pony back to the stable about 3:15 p.m. and took off the saddle and bridle. Paul led the pony back out into a field.

Alone in the barn Wayne climbed on a barrel and fell off. His head slipped into a loop of baling twine which was hanging on the wall of the stable.

Paul discovered Wayne and called their parents. The child was dead on arrival at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, at 3:30 p.m.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was due to strangulation. The body will be taken to the residence at Pocomoke this afternoon.

Boy Killed By Truck

Thirteen-year-old William Clayton Defibaugh, of Marlinton, W. Va., was killed instantly at 6:55 a.m. Saturday morning, by a truck driven by his father Wilson William Defibaugh, Marlinton.

The accident happened on Shenandoah Mountain approximately 15 miles east of Franklin on State Route 33.

According to Corporal French Armstrong, of the Franklin detachment of West Virginia State Police, the youth was riding with his father in the truck loaded with wood which they were taking to Front Royal.

The southbound truck was moving slowly up the steep mountain grade when the victim stepped from the cab to the road, meaning to walk beside the vehicle to see if the load was intact and had not shifted. Immediately after the boy left the cab, the father felt a bump from the rear of the truck and immediately stopped and alighted.

He found his son lying dead in the road. The right rear wheel of the vehicle had passed over his head. It is presumed he slipped as he alighted from the truck and fell in such manner that the wheel rolled over his head.

Injured Child Dies

A Manns Choice, Pa., tot, injured Tuesday by a car, died Saturday in Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

He was Michael Newby, three-year-old son of Mrs. Jane Newby, RD 1, Manns Choice.

The child had been in critical condition since he was injured.

Dr. J. H. Kinsley, Bedford County coroner, said death was caused by a compound depressed fracture of the skull.

State Police said the boy was struck by a car operated by Lawrence R. Fritz, 50, New Buena Vista. The accident occurred on Route 31, about six miles west of Manns Choice.

Fritz told police he did not see the boy on the highway in time to avoid striking him. He said the child darted into the path of his car after running onto the highway from behind a clump of trees.

Dr. Kinsley will determine the necessity for an inquest after conferring with state police.

Rotary Club To Hold Annual Family Picnic

The Rotary Club will hold its annual family picnic at 1 p.m. August 21 at Cumberland Country Club.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Grace Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. W. Randolph Keefer. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministers Association.

Building, Body, Bride

By REV. W. RANDOLPH KEEFER

The church is spoken of in the New Testament as a building, as a body, and as a bride. In Matthew 16:18 Jesus says: "I will build my church." Then the Master goes on to state that His church shall not perish. Even the gates of hell shall not prevent its advance. Here is assurance for those who are afraid that the church might fail.

How wonderful it is of God to let you and me have a part in the church's advance!

Before a man starts to build he makes certain he has a good foundation. The taller the building the surer he must be of the foundation.

The Psalmist reminds us in Psalm 127:1, "Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it." We must use all the skill and strength we possess in the building of God's kingdom; but we are to depend on God for results. Apart from Him all our efforts at building are useless.

Jesus Christ, the Son of the Living God, is the only foundation on which we can build. We build not for self nor by ourselves. We are co-laborers. None of us is in subordination to any other. We are instruments in the Lord's hands. Only when we do not labor for Him is our labor in vain.

Survives Sinking

Italian Bride 'Home' At Last After Rescue From Andrea

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Being awakened suddenly from a deep sleep into a state of confusion and panic was the harrowing experience last week of Mrs. Orsola Cavezza Marinelli, 132 Grand Avenue, who was one of the passengers on the Andrea Doria. The Italian luxury liner sank to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean off the coast of Massachusetts

Bean Will Fill Convention Post

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 29.—State Senate President Ralph J. Bean of Moorefield has been named temporary chairman of the Democratic State Convention, State Chairman Hullett C. Smith announced.

The convention will be held here Aug. 10. Bean is vice chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Bean's job as temporary chairman will be to preside during the morning session of the one-day meeting. Former Judge R. D. Bailey of Pineville, permanent convention chairman, will preside in the afternoon.

During the convention, the 1,618 delegates and alternates will adopt a state party platform and name presidential elector candidates for the November election.

Members of the family combed the various piers seeking information on the whereabouts of Mrs. Marinelli, whether she was safe or whether she was among the injured.

Reunion Touching

DiGillarmo said the experience at the pier when names of survivors were being called out was something he will never forget. He said the anticipation and anxiety of the relatives of the passengers of the ship was touching, as names were called out and identifications were made.

Marinelli, his wife and others in the family returned to Cumberland yesterday morning. Mrs. Marinelli said the ride across the Atlantic Ocean was her first and probably her last.

Last August Louis had gone to Italy aboard the Andrea Doria and married Orsola there in December. He returned on the Christopher Columbus, a sister ship.

Fire Guts Garage

Firemen from South End and Central stations were called to extinguish flames of undetermined origin which gutted the interior of a garage belonging to Clarence H. Harper at 724 Elm Street. Harper, who competes in motorcycle hill climbs, left town about 5 a.m. yesterday to participate in a climb near Altoona, Pa. There was no vehicle in the garage but Harper lost some valuable tools and an electric drill in the fire.

Thompson Heads Auxiliary Police Of Ridgeley

Armbruster Discusses Local Organization

Ellsworth S. Thompson, who is employed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto, yesterday was elected president of the newly-organized auxiliary police department of Ridgeley.

Named vice president at the election, held at the council chamber, was Albert L. Decker. Paul F. McFarland was elected recording secretary and treasurer.

Other members of the six-man force are Robert L. Lindsay, Donald L. Jewell and Harold Jewell Jr. Another meeting is planned for next Sunday at 1 p. m. to organize the unit further.

Mayor Charles H. Fryer, Police Chief Harry Detrick, and Assistant Chief B. O. Haines attended the meeting. Harold Armbruster, president of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police Department, discussed the local organization's setup and its by-laws of the unit.

Armbruster informed these in attendance what steps to take in organizing a force. At least six more men, according to Mayor Fryer, who will be the unit's advisor, will be included in the force.

The police department of Ridgeley, and West Virginia State Police will be called upon to give the auxiliary police proper training, which will include first aid.

Armbruster invited Mayor Fryer, Chief Detrick, Officer Haines and Thompson to attend the next meeting of Cumberland's Auxiliary Police Department at the Canada House Wednesday.

Mayor Fryer said the auxiliary police have been issued caps and badges and in the future uniforms are expected to be purchased.

Chest Budget Sessions Set

The budget committee for the 1956-57 Community Chest campaign begins meeting with representatives of Cumberland's nine Red Feather agencies this week.

The committee has tentatively scheduled sessions for today, Wednesday and Thursday.

Simon Rosenbaum II has been named chairman of the budget committee. He served as vice president of the Community Chest last year and is the present treasurer.

Members include Mrs. Jane F. Price, representing the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory; T. J. Klauenberg, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the B & O; Stanley Zorick of Local 26, United Rubber Workers Union; Charles F. Davis, Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America.

Robert W. Daughtrey, of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company staff; Hudson Nix, personnel manager of the Celanese Corporation's Amcelle plant, and Charles L. Cross, representing the Cumberland Building and Construction Trades Council.

The budget group met last week to set up schedules for the series of meetings which will result in the adoption of a campaign goal adequate to meet the needs of the Community Chest agencies.

Wheat Growers Support Quotas

Some 79 per cent of the Maryland wheat growers voting in the July 20 wheat referendum favored quotas on the 1957 wheat crop. Chester S. Bradley, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced yesterday.

Some 666 votes were counted in Maryland, including only three in Allegany County. The state figure was only about 13 per cent of the eligible voters. All three in Allegany County opposed the quotas.

Same Type Gun Used In Murder, Suspect's Suicide

A .32 calibre Smith and Wesson revolver was used in the slaying of Mrs. Lena Lewis, 41, of Deep Creek, and in the suicide of Wilson Cole, 44, who had been the suspect in the shooting last Monday on an isolated farm five miles southwest of Terra Alta, W. Va.

But Preston County Prosecutor James T. Dailey said it has not been determined whether the slugs which ended the lives of both persons came from the same gun.

Lt. R. I. Boone, who is in charge of the firearms identification section of the West Virginia Criminal Identification Bureau at Charleston, is on vacation and a further study will be made upon his return to duty.

Personnel of the bureau ascertained that both slugs were fired from the same type of revolver. At first it was thought that Mrs. Lewis had been killed with a .22 calibre pistol.

A .32 calibre Smith and Wesson revolver was found on the person of Cole after he committed suicide Thursday evening in the B&O Railroad yards at Tunnelton after he was trapped by law enforcement officers.

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde of the Sixth Congressional District was one of the 180 Republican members of the House of Representatives who pledged "our full support" to Vice President Nixon in his bid to win renomination at the Republican National Convention which opens August 20 in San Francisco.

Rep. Edward T. Miller, another Maryland Republican from the Eastern Shore, also pledged his support to Nixon. The third Republican in Congress from this state, Rep. James P. S. Devereux of Baltimore County, was one of the 22 GOP Congressmen who did not sign the pledge of support for Nixon.

City Seeks Bids For Airport Homing Device

The City of Cumberland is asking bids for the installation of equipment to serve as a homing device for the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Bids for the equipment, which will consist of a 50-watt transmitter and necessary auxiliary equipment for incoming planes, will be opened at the August 13 meeting of the Mayor and Council.

The equipment is to be ready for installation on a radio tower in Constitution Park.

The radio transmitter will be installed on the Cumberland Valley Broadcasting Company tower in the park, which is being purchased by the city under an agreement which call for engineers of the firm to install the equipment.

Overall cost of the project has been estimated at about $5,000, with the tower purchase and installation amounting to about half of the cost.

School Board Term Lengths Are Uncertain

Governor Suggests Legislative Step

It may be necessary for the General Assembly at its next session in Annapolis to pass legislation clarifying the length of terms of members of the Allegany County Board of Education, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin said yesterday in Annapolis.

In the meantime he is sending a new commission to Joseph M. Miller, 420 Fayette Street, whom he appointed earlier this month to the remainder of the unexpired term of W. Earle Cobey, this city, who resigned. It will be for the rest of a five-year term.

Cobey had received a five-year commission when he was appointed to the board by Governor McKeldin in May 1953. But when Miller's commission came about two weeks ago to the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, it read for the remainder of an unexpired six-year term.

One Five-Year Term

At the present time Mrs. Albert C. Cook of Frostburg is the only member of the County Board of Education serving a five-year term. She was reappointed by Governor McKeldin in April at the conclusion of her first five-year term.

Kenneth R. Malcolm of Westernport, board president; Mrs. Stanley Buckley of LaVale and J. Goodloe Jackson of this city all received commissions which indicated that their terms were for six years.

The apparent confusion results from the uncertain language of Section 70 of Chapter 605 of the 1951 Acts of the General Assembly. It was this section which enlarged the Allegany County Board of Education from three to five members, and provided that two should be women and two members of the political party which received the second highest vote in the most recent gubernatorial election.

Terms Staggered

Section 70 provided that the terms of office of the members to be appointed by the Governor as of June 1, 1951, should be for one, two, three, four and five years. It then says that "as of the first Monday in May of each year, one person to fill the vacancy of the members (sic) who term is then expiring."

In compliance with Section 70 Governor McKeldin first named Malcolm to a one-year term; Wilbur V. Wilson, this city, to a two-year term; Mrs. Buckley to a three-year term; Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg, to a four-year term; and Mrs. Cook to a five-year term.

Some observers have interpreted the language of Section 70 as meaning that new terms should be for five years because only in that manner will there be a single vacancy on the board each May.

No Renewal Clause

When questioned by the Cumberland News about the discrepancy in terms of the board members, Governor McKeldin wrote in reply that the act in question makes no reference to renewal terms.

"The General Assembly may wish to correct this, and it will be called to the attention of the Minority Floor Leader, George Hughes," he wrote.

Hughes said last night he will confer with William J. Gunter, attorney to the Board of Education, and Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster about the proposed remedial legislation, and will be happy to introduce the needed bill next winter.

Gunter said he, too, would like to get the matter straightened out. If five-year terms are to prevail, Malcolm's term would expire next year rather than in 1958.

Of the five board members, three—Malcolm, Mrs. Buckley and Mrs. Cook—are Republicans, while Jackson and Miller are Democrats.

Boy Falls, Dies
As He Strangles
In Baling Twine

3-Year-Old Tot
Found By Brother

A three-year-old boy strangled to death yesterday in a freak accident at Pocomoke, Pa. He was the third area child to meet accidental death in two days. Wayne Joseph Hostetter, son of C. Carl and Verna Catherine (Clark) Hostetter of Pocomoke, died when he caught his neck in a roll of baling twine. Wayne had been riding a pony with his brother, Paul, 14. The two boys took the pony back to the stable about 3:15 p.m. and took off the saddle and bridle. Paul led the pony back out into a field. Alone in the barn Wayne climbed on a barrel and fell off. His head slipped into a loop of baling twine which was hanging on the wall of the stable. Paul discovered Wayne and called their parents. The child was dead on arrival at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, at 3:30 p.m. Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was due to strangulation. The body will be taken to the residence at Pocomoke this afternoon.

Boy Killed By Truck

Thirteen-year-old William Clayton Deibach, of Marlinton, W. Va., was killed instantly at 6:55 a.m. Saturday morning, by a truck driven by his father Wilson William Deibach, Marlinton.

The accident happened on Shenandoah Mountain approximately 15 miles east of Franklin on State Route 33.

According to Corporal French Armstrong, of the Franklin detachment of West Virginia State Police, the youth was riding with his father in the truck loaded with wood which they were taking to Front Royal.

The southbound truck was moving slowly up the steep mountain grade when the victim stepped from the cab to the road, meaning to walk beside the vehicle to see if the load was intact and had not shifted. Immediately after the boy left the cab, the father felt a bump from the rear of the truck and immediately stopped and alighted.

He found his son lying dead in the road. The right rear wheel of the vehicle had passed over his head. It is presumed he slipped as he alighted from the truck and fell in such manner that the wheel rolled over his head.

Injured Child Dies

A Manns Choice, Pa., tot, injured Tuesday by a car, died Saturday in Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

He was Michael Newby, three-year-old son of Mrs. Jane Newby, RD 1, Manns Choice.

The child had been in critical condition since he was injured.

Dr. J. H. Kiniseley, Bedford County coroner, said death was caused by a compound depressed fracture of the skull.

State Police said the boy was struck by a car operated by Lawrence R. Fritz, 50, New Buena Vista. The accident occurred on Route 31, about six miles west of Manns Choice.

Fritz told police he did not see the boy on the highway in time to avoid striking him. He said the child darted into the path of his car after running onto the highway from behind a clump of trees.

Dr. Kiniseley will determine the necessity for an inquest after conferring with state police.

Building, Body, Bride

By REV. W. RANDOLPH KEEFFE

The church is spoken of in the New Testament as a building, as a body, and as a bride. In Matthew 16:18 Jesus says: "I will build my church." Then the Master goes on to state that His church shall not perish. Even the gates of hell shall not prevent it's advance. Here is assurance for those who are afraid that the church might fail.

How wonderful it is of God to let you and me have a part in the church's advance!

Before a man starts to build he makes certain he has a good foundation. The taller the building the surer he must be of the foundation.

The Psalmist reminds us in Psalm 127:1, "Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it." We must use all the skill and strength we possess in the building of God's kingdom; but we are to depend on God for results. Apart from Him all our efforts at building are useless.

Jesus Christ, the Son of the Living God, is the only foundation on which we can build. We build not for self nor by ourselves. We are co-laborers. None of us is in subordination to any other. We are instruments in the Lord's hands. Only when we do not labor for Him is our labor in vain.

Survives Sinking

Mrs. Orsola Cavezza Marinelli, 25, arriving here yesterday after her rescue from the Andrea Doria, which sank Thursday in the Atlantic, is greeted by a nephew, Raymond Joseph DiGillarmo, held by her husband, Louis Marinelli, 132 Grand Avenue.

Tells Story Of Tragedy:

Italian Bride 'Home' At Last
After Rescue From Andrea

By CHARLES H. KELLY

Being awakened suddenly from a deep sleep into a state of confusion and panic was the harrowing experience last week of Mrs. Orsola Cavezza Marinelli, 132 Grand Avenue, who was one of the passengers on the Andrea Doria. The Italian luxury liner sank to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean off the coast of Massachusetts when it was rammed by the Swedish liner Stockholm.

Bean Will Fill
Convention Post

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 29 (AP)—State Senate President Ralph J. Bean of Moorefield has been named temporary chairman of the Democratic State Convention, State Chairman Hullett C. Smith announced.

The convention will be held here Aug. 10. Bean is vice chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Bean's job as temporary chairman will be to preside during the morning session of the one-day meeting. Former Judge R. D. Bailey of Pineville, permanent convention chairman, will preside in the afternoon.

During the convention, the 1,618 delegates and alternates will adopt a state party platform and name presidential elector candidates for the November election.

when it was rammed by the Swedish liner Stockholm.

The young bride of Louis Marinelli lost all her belongings in the sea tragedy which claimed the lives of 25 persons. Some 72 persons are still missing.

Mrs. Marinelli had retired for the evening and was suddenly awakened by other occupants of Cabin 581. She managed to grab a white knit blouse and skirt, and groped her way to the deck, then to the rail of the ship, where she slid down a rope into a waiting lifeboat. There were about 15 other passengers in the boat.

She was taken to the crippled Stockholm for the rest of the voyage to Pier 97 at New York City. There she was transferred to Pier 84 where, after anxious moments, she was reunited with her husband, her mother, Mrs. Joseph Marinelli, a brother-in-law, Vincent DiGillarmo, city, and a brother-in-law, Nello Marinelli of Richmond Hills, N. Y.

Loses All Belongings

Mrs. Marinelli was unable to get any of her belongings together in the rush for safety. Her "hope chest" with linens and valuables, as well as a suitcase with clothes and jewelry, went to the bottom of the sea.

Her only injuries, brush burns of the legs, were caused when she slid down the rope to the lifeboat. En route to shore, one of the sailors on the Stockholm gave Mrs. Marinelli a pair of slip-on shoes.

The American Red Cross and the Salvation Army were on the job and provided the survivors with hot coffee and doughnuts when they arrived at the various piers. Mrs. Marinelli was given $40 by the Red Cross for use in buying clothing and other necessities.

Her husband and the other relatives first learned of the tragedy while they were riding the New York subway on their way to the pier. They saw the headlines of a newspaper being read by a passenger in front of them. This was about 8:30 a. m. Thursday.

Members of the family combed the various piers seeking information on the whereabouts of Mrs. Marinelli, whether she was safe or whether she was among the injured.

Reunion Touching

DiGillarmo said the experience at the pier when names of survivors were being called out was something he will never forget.

He said the anticipation and anxiety of the relatives of the passengers of the ship was touching, as names were called out and identifications were made.

Marinelli, his wife and others in the family returned to Cumberland yesterday morning. Mrs. Marinelli said the ride across the Atlantic Ocean was her first and probably her last.

Last August Louis had gone to Italy aboard the Andrea Doria and married Orsola there in December. He returned on the Christopher Columbus, a sister ship.

There was no vehicle in the garage but Harper lost some valuable tools and an electric drill in the fire.

Armbruster Discusses
Local Organization

Ellsworth S. Thompson, who is employed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto, yesterday was elected president of the newly-organized auxiliary police department of Ridgeley.

Named vice president at the election, held at the council chamber, was Albert L. Decker. Paul F. McFarland was elected recording secretary and treasurer.

Other members of the six-man force are Robert L. Lindsay, Donald L. Jewell and Harold Jewell Jr. Another meeting is planned for next Sunday at 1 p. m. to organize the unit further.

Mayor Charles H. Fryer, Police Chief Harry Detrick, and Assistant Chief B. O. Haines attended the meeting. Harold Armbruster, president of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police Department, discussed the local organization's setup and its by-laws of the unit.

Armbruster informed these in attendance what steps to take in organizing a force. At least six more men, according to Mayor Fryer, who will be the unit's advisor, will be included in the force.

The police department of Ridgeley, and West Virginia State Police will be called upon to give the auxiliary police proper training, which will include first aid.

Armbruster invited Mayor Fryer, Chief Detrick, Officer Haines and Thompson to attend the next meeting of Cumberland's Auxiliary Police Department at the Canada Hose House Wednesday.

Mayor Fryer said the auxiliary police have been issued caps and badges and in the future uniforms are expected to be purchased.

Chest Budget
Sessions Set

The budget committee for the 1956-57 Community Chest campaign begins meeting with representatives of Cumberland's nine Red Feather agencies this week.

The committee has tentatively scheduled sessions for today, Wednesday and Thursday.

Simon Rosenbaum II has been named chairman of the budget committee. He served as vice president of the Community Chest last year and is the present treasurer.

Members include Mrs. Jane F. Prill, representing the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory; T. J. Klauenberg, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the B & O; Stanley Zorick of Local 26, United Rubber Workers Union; Charles F. Davis, Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America.

Robert W. Daughtrey, of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company staff; Hudson Nix, personnel manager of the Celanese Corporation's Amcelle plant, and Charles L. Cross, representing the Cumberland Building and Construction Trades Council. The budget group met last week to set up schedules for the series of meetings which will result in the adoption of a campaign goal adequate to meet the needs of the Community Chest agencies.
